Navy Pilots Hit Enemy Supplies

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — U.S. Navy pilots attacked more than 200 North Vietnamese supply barges and junks Tuesday and reported destroying or damaging 111.

Moving in one day after American Air Force planes shot down seven Communist MIG21s, Navy fliers from three aircraft carriers reported using rockets to damage a surface-to-air missile radar site and to set fire to a torpedo boat off North Vietnam's port of Haiphong.

In South Vietnam, the ground war simmered down to small actions while elsewhere British moves to start peace talks met with a Communist rebuff.

In South Vietnam, the Viet Cong set free two American civilian construction men whom they had held prisoner since last May 27 and a Filipino whom they seized last June 24.

The trio was found today by a company of Vietnamese popular force troops some 40 miles northeast of Saigon, U. S. officials announced.

In other developments, Air Force long-range B52 bombers struck twice today at Communist positions in South Vietnam.

Solons Okay Preparation of Airport Plans

Authority to proceed with preparation of detailed specifications for construction of an airport here was approved Tuesday afternoon by the Pickaway County Commissioners.

The County Engineering Department was directed to start preparing construction plans as soon as possible. The solons pointed that establishing specifications is one of the steps necessary before bids can be accepted for the project.

The commission's action followed Tuesday's receipt of a cost estimate for construction of a proposed airport in Washington Twp. The figure was listed in the neighborhood of $160,000 for runway erection and lights only.

Lloyd Melvin, commission chairman, said the preparation of plans was authorized although the county must find ways to come up with all funds in excess of the $100,000 assistance the state is willing to provide.

MELVIN said the decision to go ahead with construction plans will keep the project from bogging down, even if all necessary funds are not immediately available. He said future action to raise the money looms as an important project.

The commissioners Tuesday affirmed their previous stand that funds to support the airport project are not available in the county treasury.

In other business this week, Mrs. Geneva Brink was rehired as commission clerk. Melvin was renamed chairman at Monday's reorganizational meeting, marking his third consecutive term as board chief.

Jack Ruby Comes Home to Chicago

CHICAGO (AP)—Jack Ruby, who grew up on Chicago's tough West Side, returned home in death today after gaining international notoriety as the slayer of President John F. Kennedy's accused assassin. He will be buried beside his parents.

The plane carrying Ruby's body landed at O'Hare International Airport shortly after midnight after a flight from Dallas, where he died Tuesday at Parkland Memorial Hospital — the same hospital in which Kennedy and Lee Harvey Oswald died.

His death from a blood clot in the lungs forever clouded the Before dawn, the heavy bombers swept in from Guam to hammer a suspected troop concentration 32 miles northwest of Saigon.

Soon after daybreak, a second wave of B52s pounded another suspected troop concentration eight miles west-northwest of Bong Son near the central coast.

In the Navy's air strikes Tuesday, F4 Phantoms and other jet bombers from the carriers Enterprise, Kitty Hawk and Coral Sea joined in repeated assaults against cargo junks and barges along the North Vietnamese coast and on inland waterways.

Pilots claimed they destroyed 13 barges and 3 junks and damaged 64 barges and 31 junks, scoring hits on more than half of the 200 watercraft attacked.

Navy Phantom jet pilots attacked a North Vietnamese torpedo boat 23 miles east of Haiphong and reported their rockets left the PT boat with two fires burning on it.

Other carrier pilots used rockets to strike at a missile radar site southeast of Thanh Hoa and reported damaging the site.

In all, U.S. Navy pilots flew 54 strike missions over North Vietnam Tuesday. Air Force pilots added another 26 missions, hitting at oil depots, staging areas and roads in the

THE FIRST BABY of the year born in Berger Hospital was a 7-pound 13 ounce boy. Mr. and Mrs. Richard Speakman of Williamsport are the parents. The child was born 8:31 p. m. Tuesday.

A LINE CREW from the Columbus and Southern Ohio Companies, digging a hole for a utility pole at 661 East Mound St., unearthed an ancient Indian burial site.

Dr. Raymond S. Baby, curator of the Ohio State Museum, was in Circleville today and looked at the bones and the burial site. Dr. Baby said the grave contained the bones of an adult, a youngster and a dog.

According to the archeologist, the grave was of a pre-Hopewell culture.

He estimated the age of the grave to date back between the years 6000 and 1500 B.C. The bones, discovered at a depth of about five feet, were remarkably well-preserved.

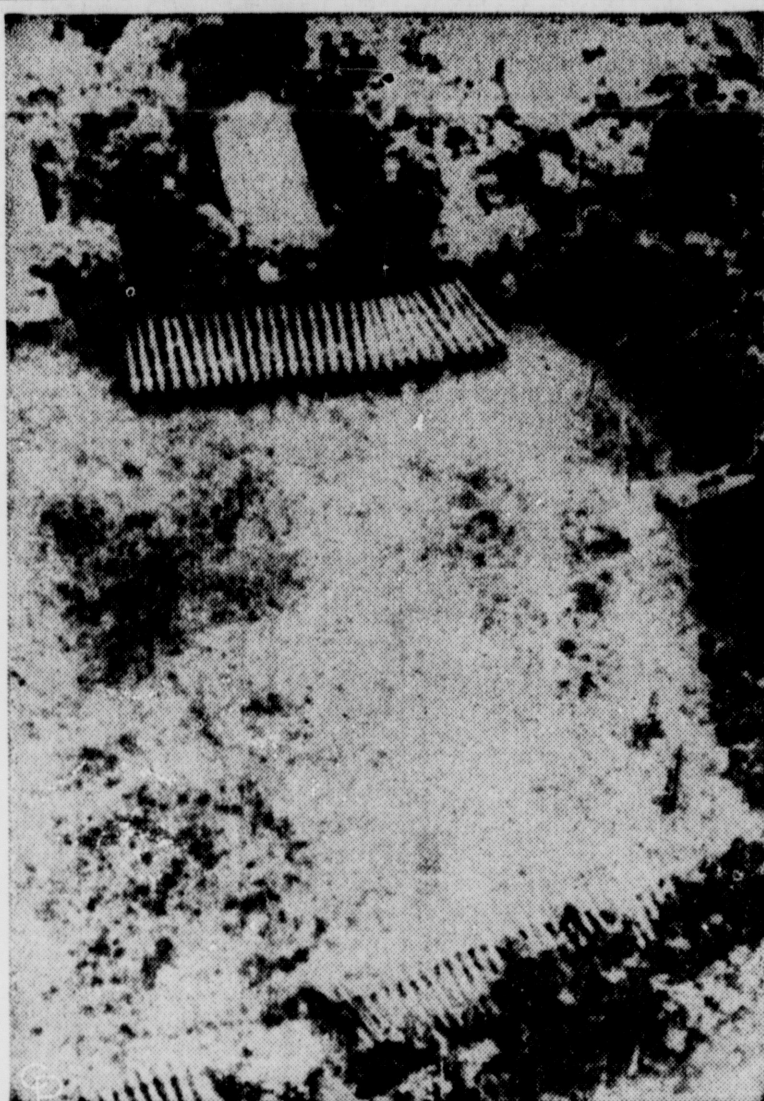

3 Crash Victims Believed To Be UC Man, Family

ABBEVILLE, Ga. (AP) — Three charred bodies recovered Tuesday from the wreckage of a small plane were believed to be those of a University of Cincinnati professor and his family.

Tentative identification of the victims—Dr. P. Michael Edelman, 37; his wife, Jean C., and their daughter, Alison, 7, of Mulberry, Ohio—was made by the Wilcox County Sheriff's Department.

Edelman was an assistant professor of physiology and an instructor in the university's College of Medicine. His wife was a senior research associate in physiology at the university.

A pathologist was attempting to make positive identification. The plane crash occurred Monday near here. The craft was registered to Dr. Edelman and he and his family had been visiting in Florida. They were believed en route home.

Foiled Revolutionists Take Furious, Fuming Outlook

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP) — The leaders of a tiny Cuban-Haitian exile army are in jail today, fuming over breakup of a fantastic plan to conquer Haiti and turn it into an invasion base against Fidel Castro.

Officials at Key West's Monroe County jail said all were held for the federal government on charges of violating U. S. neutrality laws.

Bond was set at $5,000 for Rolando Masferrer, exiled Havana politician who has tangled before with the United States over plots to shoot up Castro Cuba.

Officials set bond at $2,500 each for most of 27 comrades jailed here with him after a roundup of about 80 motley-uniformed persons, including a woman and a priest.

William B. Meadows, U. S. attorney for south Florida, said he was checking on whether Masferrer had violated

Water Crash Claims Life Of Sportsman

CONISTON, England (AP) — Donald Campbell, Britain's most noted speedster on land and water, crashed to his death at 310 miles an hour today in an attempt to break his own world water speed record.

His jet hydroplane Bluebird leaped from the surface of Lake Coniston, exploded and sank.

Frogmen were searching for his body hours later.

The 45-year-old Briton realized a life's dream in the last few seconds before he died. He had said he would quit when he topped 300 miles per hour.

His two-year-old record was 276.33 miles per hour.

Witnesses abandoned hope for Campbell almost as soon as they saw the crash.

Wreckage from the boat was strewn on the water. Campbell's oxygen mask and bits of his clothing were found floating.

He had completed one run along the measured course on Lake Coniston and was on the return run when the Bluebird crashed. He needed to complete the course both ways to set a record.

His last words by radio were: "I'm giving her full power. I can't see much. I'm going."

restrictions imposed on him by the Immigration Service for previous war-making activities.

About 50 of the captives were taken to Miami for booking. All were released Tuesday night in recognizance bonds of $100.

Masferrer, an athletic 45, criticized the United States for "protecting Fidel Castro" by arresting him and his band at a Florida keys rendezvous where federal agents said the expedition was preparing to embark.

One of the group's officers, Anton Constanzo, said at Miami that he eluded arrest and hatched home.

Constanzo said the expedition had planned to land at Port Au Prince, Haitian capital, join forces with 20 comrades in the Negro island republic, and overthrow Haitian President Francois Duvalier's government with the help of native malcontents.

Then the island would be used as a base to make war on Castro, whose territory lies only 50 miles west across the Windward Passage. Constanzo said Masferrer was confident he could forge a Cuba invasion army within a month.

The Rev. Jean Baptiste Georges, a Haitian priest and once education minister under Duvalier, was to be installed as president. He was among those rounded up. Another was the group's only woman member, identified as Aurlia Poggio and described by exiles as the expedition's quartermaster.

The raid was made on Cocoa Plum Island, near Marathon, when agents saw a 55-foot shrimp boat being loaded late Monday night. They surrounded the island's only house and exiles came boiling out like ants from a kicked-over hill, cursing the raiders.

"Why do you stop us?" one demanded.

When the federal men saw how many persons they had surprised, they quickly got help from 20 sheriff's deputies. There was no resistance. Agents said they found a quantity of arms in the house.

Council Brought Up to Date On City's CATV Franchise

Circleville Councilmen were brought up to date Tuesday night concerning a community antenna television system they authorized last year.

Offering the rundown was Edward L. Glockner, president of Multi-Channel Cable Co. of Portsmouth which holds the local franchise. He reviewed how actual performance of the system here and across the nation has been due to restrictions imposed by the Federal Communications Commission and litigation that has resulted.

Glockner noted that his firm has been conducting an extensive battle to secure waivers that would allow them to put their system into operation here and in other locations where franchises have been granted.

Despite the curtailment confronted the past few months, Glockner expressed confidence the system will become a reality here if the city agrees to extend the one-year operational contract granted his firm last March. His statement was in reply to a question by solon Robert Turner concerning the future of CATV.

THE CATV operation generally is a one-way distribution service that transmits signals to subscriber television sets. The mechanics call for erection of large antennas to amplify the signals of nearby and distant TV stations and relay them into homes at an average fee of about $5 per month.

The legal involvement developed after television station operators complained that CATV was becoming a threat to free TV and urged the FCC to clamp down. CATV interests have argued that no television station had been forced out of business or lost money because of CATV.

The Federal Communications Commission, bogged down with the sudden onslaught, has asked Congress to legislate the limits of government regulations over the industry.

Berger Gets $80,000 from Fisher Estate

Berger Hospital will receive more than $80,000 from the estate of the late Mrs. Effie Hunsicker Fisher of Wilmington.

Pickaway County Commissioners and members of Circleville City Council have been informed that the city-county hospital will receive $80,355.22 as a bequest under the will of the late Clinton County resident.

Mrs. Fisher died July 5, 1965, and named Berger Hospital as a beneficiary. At that time, the amount bequeathed was not known because the estate had not been settled.

Another institution benefitting under the will of Mrs. Fisher is the Williamsport Methodist Church. Mrs. Fisher specified that the church was to receive a bequest of $10,000.

INDICATIONS are that the hospital's Board of Governors will place the inheritance in its building and construction fund.

Local officials were notified of the amount this week by Richard Simkin, local attorney, who was named executor of the Fisher estate.

Clinton Memorial Hospital in Wilmington is also a beneficiary under the will of Mrs. Fisher.

Mrs. Fisher was born in Deercreek Twp., Pickaway County, on Mar. 14, 1869, the daughter of Dr. John and Marie Brown Hunsicker.

Pentagon Says Errant Weapon Is Unarmed

WASHINGTON (AP) — An unarmed Air Force missile fired in a test from Florida has veered off its scheduled course into the Gulf of Mexico and presumably soared over Cuba, the Pentagon said today.

A terse Defense Department announcement said the surface-to-air-breathing missile carried no warhead.

The weapon, undergoing research and development tests, was launched at 10 a.m. EST from the Air Force proving ground at Eglin AFB, Fla., the Pentagon said.

"The research vehicle took off on an unprogrammed course that would cause an impact at 11:21 a.m. EST, about 100 miles south of the southwest coast of Cuba," the Pentagon statement said.

The Pentagon gave no other details.

A spokesman said the missile, a Mace, has a maximum range of about 650 miles. The test range lies in an area of the Gulf of Mexico of Cuba.

While the Defense Department did not go into any explanations, the quick announcement was obviously aimed to get in ahead of any propaganda blasts from the Fidel Castro regime in Cuba.

The Mace is a winged type missile 44½ feet long and weighing up to 18,000 pounds. With its self-guidance system the weapon can cruise at 650 miles an hour.

Spokesmen at first said the missile had no explosives of any type, but they amended this later to say that the Mace is equipped with "destruct" charges under each of its two wings.

These are designed to allow guidance crews to destroy a missile going astray, but an officer said obviously the destruct capability had failed.

Nevertheless, spokesmen said, there would be no explosion when the missile struck down, whether on land or sea.

When armed, the missile can carry either a nuclear or a conventional warhead.

The assumption was that the missile had already hit the ocean south of Cuba, but the Pentagon had no reports that it actually had impacted.

What happens when it impacts "It will merely make a big splash," a spokesman said.

A spokesman said the missile's errant course was traced by radar, allowing air force officers to plot where it would go down.

The Pentagon said the missile was being used as a test vehicle in a fighter-interceptor test program.

Bishop Sheen Creates New Type Office

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — The Most Rev. Fulton J. Sheen, newly appointed bishop of the Rochester Roman Catholic Diocese, has formed what he believes is the first diocesan office in the country to deal with inner-city problems.

He is the Rev. P. David Finks, assistant pastor of Immaculate Conception church here, and a member of FIGHT, a civil rights group.

Father Finks will bear the title of episcopal vicar of urban ministry for the Roman Catholic Diocese of Rochester.

The appointment was the first to be made by Bishop Sheen since he took charge of the diocese Dec. 15.

In a letter to Father Finks, the bishop, known nationally because of his television programs, pledged an active search for ways to relieve the plight of slum neighborhoods.

Berger Hospital will receive more than $80,000 from the estate of the late Mrs. Effie Hunsicker Fisher of Wilmington.

Pickaway County Commissioners and members of Circleville City Council have been informed that the city-county hospital will receive $80,355.22 as a bequest under the will of the late Clinton County resident.

Mrs. Fisher died July 5, 1965, and named Berger Hospital as a beneficiary. At that time, the amount bequeathed was not known because the estate had not been settled.

Another institution benefitting under the will of Mrs. Fisher is the Williamsport Methodist Church. Mrs. Fisher specified that the church was to receive a bequest of $10,000.

INDICATIONS are that the hospital's Board of Governors will place the inheritance in its building and construction fund. Local officials were notified of the amount this week by Richard Simkins, local attorney, who was named executor of the Fisher estate.

Clinton Memorial Hospital in Wilmington is also a beneficiary under the will of Mrs. Fisher.

Mrs. Fisher was born in Deercreek Twp., Pickaway County, on Mar. 14, 1869, the daughter of Dr. John and Marie Brown Hunsicker.

10th Saturn Moon Discovered

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — Astronomers have discovered a 10th satellite circling Saturn just outside the rings that are its trademark.

The satellite apparently is the closest to the planet and the rings, collections of particles that reflect light.

The Smithsonian Astrophysical Observatory, a clearing house for information about celestial discoveries, confirmed the discovery Tuesday night.

Yugoslav Official Dies in Crash

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP) — Boris Kraljic, 53, vice premier of Yugoslavia and a member of the Presidium of the Communist party, was killed early today when his car skidded on the icy agribelgrade highway and hit a tree.

Kraljic's elder son, Janecz, was also killed and his younger son was injured. They were en route to Belgrade after spending the New Year holiday in Kraljic's native Slovenia.

Pentagon Says Errant Weapon Is Unarmed

WASHINGTON (AP) — An unarmed Air Force missile fired in a test from Florida has veered off its scheduled course into the Gulf of Mexico and presumably soared over Cuba, the Pentagon said today.

A terse Defense Department announcement said the surface-to-surface air-breathing missile carried no warhead.

The weapon, undergoing research and development tests, was launched at 10 a. m. EST from the Air Force proving ground at Eglin AFB, Fla., the Pentagon said.

"The research vehicle took off on an unprogrammed course that would cause an impact at 11:21 a. m. EST, about 100 miles south of the southwest coast of Cuba," the Pentagon statement said.

The Pentagon gave no other details.

A spokesman said the missile, a Mace, has a maximum range of about 650 miles. The test range lies in an area of the Gulf of Mexico off Cuba.

While the Defense Department did not go into any explanations, the quick announcement was obviously aimed to get in ahead of any propaganda blasts from the Fidel Castro regime in Cuba.

The Mace is a winged type missile 44½ feet long and weighing up to 18,000 pounds. With its self-guidance system the weapon can cruise at 650 miles an hour.

Spokesmen at first said the missile had no explosives of any type, but they amended this later to say that the Mace is equipped with "destruct" charges under each of its two wings.

These are designed to allow guidance crews to destroy a missile going astray, but an officer said obviously the destruct capability had failed.

Nevertheless, spokesmen said, there would be no explosion when the missile struck down, whether on land or sea.

When armed, the missile can carry either a nuclear or a conventional warhead.

The assumption was that the missile had already hit the ocean south of Cuba, but the Pentagon had no reports that it actually had impacted.

What happens when it impacts "It will merely make a big splash," a spokesman said. A spokesman said the missile's errant course was traced by radar, allowing air force officers to plot where it would go down.

The Pentagon said the missile was being used as a test vehicle in a fighter-interceptor test program.

Bishop Sheen Creates New Type Office

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — The Most Rev. Fulton J. Sheen, newly appointed bishop of the Rochester Roman Catholic Diocese, has formed what he believes is the first diocesan office in the country to deal with inner-city problems.

The bishop also announced Tuesday that a 36-year-old priest and member of a militant civil rights group will head the office beginning Jan. 25.

He is the Rev. P. David Finks, assistant pastor of Immaculate Conception church here, and a member of FIGHT, a civil rights group.

Father Finks will bear the title of episcopal vicar of urban ministry for the Roman Catholic Diocese of Rochester.

The appointment was the first to be made by Bishop Sheen since he took charge of the diocese Dec. 15.

In a letter to Father Finks, the bishop, known nationally because of his television programs, pledged an active search for ways to relieve the plight of slum neighborhoods.

Salisbury Report Raises Speculation Has Hanoi Eased Its Hard Line

NEW YORK (AP) — Premier Pham Van Dong of Communist North Vietnam says his government's four-point demands in the Vietnam war are not necessarily conditions for peace talks but rather a "basis of settlement of the Vietnam problem," the New York Times reported from Hanoi today.

The Hanoi premier's statement, in an interview with correspondent Harrison E. Salisbury, raised speculation that North Vietnam had shifted in some measure from a hard-line all-or-nothing stand which blocked the path to a conference table.

Salisbury quoted Premier Dong as saying: "The big question is to reach a settlement which can be enforced."

"The party which has to make the first steps is Washington. We have no doubt on this point. We cannot press history forward. If this does not come about today, it will come about tomorrow. It's no use to make haste. If we show haste, the question will be put wrongly and we will have to wait again. So let the situation ripen."

Hanoi's four-point demands have been these: recognition of the rights of all Vietnamese to peace, independence, sovereignty, unity and territorial integrity; pending peaceful reunification, strict adherence to the terms of the 1954 Geneva agreements which divided Vietnam after the French were expelled; settlement of the internal affairs of South Vietnam by the Vietnamese people "in accordance with the program" of the National Liberation Front which is the Viet Cong's political arm; and reunification without any foreign interference.

The program of the Liberation Front is virtually identical to the four points. Recognizing the front in advance would just about assure a Communist takeover in the South. It seems a question whether the North Vietnamese premier was hinting

Tuesday "sickness" spread to the city's sewage treatment plant, with eight plant workers, the entire staff except for Supt. James Armaline, calling in sick. The Mahoning County Sheriff's Department has offered to help Campbell in case of emergency.

Barn, Pigs Destroyed By Blaze

A fire Tuesday night at the G. V. Rieck Farm on the Mt. Sterling - Commercial Point Road near Matville destroyed a barn and its contents.

Housed in the barn at the time of the fire were 17 sows and 77 pigs. The structure also contained approximately 600 bales of straw and 300 pounds of feed.

Both the Commercial Point and the Harrisburg fire departments were at the scene.

Emery Marshall, who lived at the farm, told Pickaway County Deputy Sheriff Edward Gahn he did not realize the building was on fire until it was spotted by a passing motorist at about 11:15 p. m.

Marshall noted he was using heat lamps in the building to provide warmth for the pigs.

ACCORDING to provisions of the franchise granted last year by Circleville, the Multi - Channel firm was to pay the city a minimum fee of $400 for operational privileges. The city also would receive three per cent of gross receipts arising from charges for service to patrons for gross receipts up to and including $108,000 and five per cent of gross receipts over and above this amount.

Although Glockner's request for an extension of the one - year performance contract was referred to committee, the lawmakers indicated approval will be forthcoming.

In other business, Councilman Turner suggested a light be erected in the vicinity of the drive - up mail box now located at the first "Y" north of the Post Office. Solon John Jenkins added that the immediate area also should be paved.

Mayor Ben Gordon said he would direct the Service Department to handle the paving. No decision was reached concerning the light.

In the way of reports, Police Chief Robert Temple reported that his department is trying to peacefully handle a controversial truck parking problem on E. Main St.

Chief Temple, for the benefit of E. Main residents lodging complaints, referred to a city ordinance that limits parking to 24 hours in one location. He noted that drivers who violate the provision will abide by it or suffer the consequences.

TEMPLE also noted that his department will put a new cruiser into service today. He invited the solons to inspect the vehicle at their convenience.

Frank Barnhill, finance chairman, reported that his committee is still working on the city ordinance that limits parking to 24 hours in one location. He noted that drivers who violate the provision will abide by it or suffer the consequences.

General fund money to erase the deficit will boost state public school subsidies to nearly $660 million, including operation of the education department, Fisher said.

The code revision measures will correct errors detected by the Legislative Service Commission so that new laws for the 107th General Assembly can be drafted properly, it was explained.

In other business, the lawmakers concentrated on organizational matters to prepare for a session that may get down to serious business in about two weeks.

Leaders hinted that they expect early introduction of GOP administration programs and said they hoped preliminary work can be out of the way for the first bill introductions next week.

On tap today were the completion assignments, consideration of proposed rules changes, and a few patronage appointments which have to receive floor approval.

Senate Majority Leader Theodore M. Gray, R-Miami, said the upper chamber would waste no time in getting down to business and added: "We want to get hearings started as soon as possible."

The 107th General Assembly convened Monday, and so far, activities have consisted primarily of ceremonial matters required by law. One such matter was taken care of Tuesday when the two chambers met jointly to certify results of Nov. 8 election. Lt. Gov. John W. Brown, R - Medina, presided over the session, which lasted four minutes.

Certification of Secretary of State Ted W. Brown's vote canvass cleared the way for GOP Gov. James A. Rhodes and other statewide officials to be sworn into office Monday morning.

Starting next week, Rhodes and his team of Republican incumbents will get pay raises voted by the last legislature. Rhodes' salary goes from $25,000 to $40,000, those of Atty. Gen. William Saxbe, Auditor Roger Cloud, and Secretary of State Brown from $15,000 to $25,000, and that of the lieutenant governor from $8,000 to $17,000.

Leaders of both houses said first week sessions would adjourn after meetings today to return Monday night at 8 p.m. Next week's sessions also will run only through Wednesday instead of Thursday as the legislature normally does.

Hoffa's Time Running Out

HOLLYWOOD, Fla. (AP) — Teamsters Union President James R. Hoffa, with time fast running out for his final legal efforts to stay out of prison, busied himself today in shaping up nationwide trucking contract demands.

"I guess that's how he stays sane," said a close associate about the grueling work pace maintained by Hoffa despite the eight-year jury tampering sentence hanging over him.

Hoffa kept aides working long hours wrapping up final details on wage demands he said will range from five to seven per cent for some 500,000 teamsters' employees of 12,000 trucking firms.

Contract talks start in Washington Jan. 17, but unless successful in winning a new Supreme Court hearing or a new trial, Hoffa could be in prison before the March 31 contract deadline.

The Supreme Court has already rejected his appeal.

Vietnamese and U.S. officials reported 30 Vietnamese civilians were killed by Viet Cong terrorist activity last week. They said 68 more civilians were wounded and 44 kidnapped in the week ending last Saturday.

Pentagon, Times Debate Bombing

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon has officially denied that U.S. planes deliberately bombed civilian areas of Nam Dinh, North Vietnam's third largest city.

The statement was contained in a Defense Department letter to Rep. Ogden R. Reid, R-N.Y., that amounts to an official rebuttal of some portions of a New York Times dispatch about U.S. bombing of the city.

Dated Dec. 30 and made public Tuesday night, the letter was signed by Phil G. Goulding, deputy assistant secretary of defense for public affairs. It came in response to Reid's request for a restatement of U.S. policy on bombing and targeting in North Vietnam in light of recent Times' dispatches reporting widespread civilian deaths and damage.

Harrison E. Salisbury, a Times' assistant managing editor, said in one dispatch from Hanoi last week that U.S. planes have systematically attacked nonmilitary targets including a textile plant and dikes in Nam Dinh, killing 89 persons. He added: "No American communique has asserted that Nam Dinh contains some facility that the United States regards as a military objective."

Goulding said this statement "is without accuracy." He added: "The New York Times simply did not take the time to research the matter themselves — or, indeed, to ask our assistance."

"The Times, however, said in today's editions that before Salisbury's dispatch was published Dec. 27 'it was read to Defense Department officials.'"

"In a statement printed in the same issue of the New York Times," the newspaper said, "administration officials conceded for the first time that American bombing raids against North Vietnam were accidentally causing damage to civilian areas."

"The officials also said that there were military targets in Nam Dinh and that American aircraft had repeatedly bombed them."

NEW YORK (AP) — Premier Pham Van Dong of Communist North Vietnam says his government's four-point demands in the Vietnam war are not necessarily conditions for peace talks but rather a "basis of settlement of the Vietnam problem," the New York Times reported from Hanoi today.

Chief Temple, for the benefit of E. Main residents lodging complaints, referred to a city ordinance that limits parking to 24 hours in one location. He noted that drivers who violate the provision will abide by it or suffer the consequences.

TEMPLE also noted that his department will put a new cruiser into service today. He invited the solons to inspect the vehicle at their convenience. Frank Barnhill, finance chairman, reported that his committee is still working on the city budget for 1967. His request for an adjourned session to Jan. 10 was granted. He said legislation authorizing the appropriations should be ready at this date.

Grand Jury Meets To Hear 15 Cases

The January term of Pickaway County Grand Jury convened Wednesday morning to consider 15 cases.

The 15 - member jury was expected to complete its study of cases by mid-afternoon. The list includes three secret cases.

Here is a rundown of cases confronting the first term of the jury in 1967.

David H. Schooley, charged with issuing a check with insufficient funds; Robert Garrett, Robert Lawson, Pearl Houser, William M. Smith and Carl M. Tomlinson, all are accused of failing to provide for their minor children; * * *

BILL Miller, issuing check with insufficient funds; Frank Hamp Jr., breaking and entering an uninhabited building in the night season and a second charge of grand larceny; Ralph J. Binkley, Richard Randolph and John Marvin Thomas, all are accused of armed robbery.

Two of the secret cases involve second degree manslaughter charges and the third is an accusation against a man for issuing a check with no account in the bank on which the check was drawn.

Serving on the jury under Hal B. Spencer, as foreman, are Donald Pontious, Thelma Martindale, Robert L. Throckmorton, Robert Thomas Lutz, Sam Winfough, Rexford Hall Jr., W. R. Graham, Mary L. Clifton, Fred McCoy, Russel Shannon, Doris R. Yamarick, Orville Raso, Clara E. Delong and James Seymour.

Members of the jury were to conduct their regular inspection of the jail and Sheriff's residence during the afternoon.

Five newly elected directors were installed for three year terms. They are: McCoy, Mostyn Garrett, Darby Twp.; LeRoy Newton, Jackson Twp.; Robert Baum, Harrison Twp.; Emerson Brown, Walnut Twp.

WAYNE MARTIN was appointed to serve the unexpired term of Dale DeLong, who submitted his resignation to the board Monday.

Harlow Arledge, new director for Circleville, was unable to attend the meeting.

Dick Shaw was appointed as delegate and Glenn McCoy as alternate to the State Fair Managers Convention in Columbus Jan. 12 and 13.

At the next meeting, McCoy said that replacements will be named to fill the vacancies created by the death of Ralph McDill, Circleville Twp., and by Rose's resignation for Deer Creek Twp.

The meeting will be held Jan. 15, at the Coliseum.

The board accorded Rose a standing ovation for his years of faithful service to the Pickaway County Fair. Members noted the death of Mr. McDill by standing in silence.

HOLLYWOOD, Fla. (AP) — Teamsters Union President James R. Hoffa, with time fast running out for his final legal efforts to stay out of prison, busied himself today in shaping up nationwide trucking contract demands.

"I guess that's how he stays sane," said a close associate about the grueling work pace maintained by Hoffa despite the eight-year jury tampering sentence hanging over him.

Hoffa kept aides working long hours wrapping up final details on wage demands he said will range from five to seven per cent for some 500,000 teamsters' employees of 12,000 trucking firms.

Contract talks start in Washington Jan. 17, but unless successful in winning a new Supreme Court hearing or a new trial, Hoffa could be in prison before the March 31 contract deadline.

The Supreme Court has already rejected his appeal.

Vietnamese and U.S. officials reported 30 Vietnamese civilians were killed by Viet Cong terrorist activity last week. They said 68 more civilians were wounded and 44 kidnapped in the week ending last Saturday.

The killed and wounded included several village and hamlet officials. One of the wounded was a prominent member of the South Vietnamese Constitutional Assembly who was injured when a grenade exploded under his car.

Figures released today by well-informed sources indicated that only 55 to 60 per cent of South Vietnam is under secure government control.

The Viet Cong hold 17 to 20 per cent and the rest is contested, these sources said.

Pentagon, Times Debate Bombing

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon has officially denied that U.S. planes deliberately bombed civilian areas of Nam Dinh, North Vietnam's third largest city.

The statement was contained in a Defense Department letter to Rep. Ogden R. Reid, R-N.Y., that amounts to an official rebuttal of some portions of a New York Times dispatch about U.S. bombing of the city.

Dated Dec. 30 and made public Tuesday night, the letter was signed by Phil G. Goulding, deputy assistant secretary of defense for public affairs. It came in response to Reid's request for a restatement of U.S. policy on bombing and targeting in North Vietnam in light of recent Times' dispatches reporting widespread civilian deaths and damage.

Harrison E. Salisbury, a Times' assistant managing editor, said in one dispatch from Hanoi last week that U.S. planes have systematically attacked nonmilitary targets including a textile plant and dikes in Nam Dinh, killing 89 persons. He added: "No American communique has asserted that Nam Dinh contains some facility that the United States regards as a military objective."

Goulding said this statement "is without accuracy." He added: "The New York Times simply did not take the time to research the matter themselves — or, indeed, to ask our assistance."

The Times, however, said in today's editions that before Salisbury's dispatch was published Dec. 27 "it was read to Defense Department officials."

"In a statement printed in the same issue of the New York Times," the newspaper said, "administration officials conceded for the first time that American bombing raids against North Vietnam were accidentally causing damage to civilian areas."

"The officials also said that there were military targets in Nam Dinh and that American aircraft had repeatedly bombed them."

Britain's Leaky Pens

In seventeenth-century Britain, Richard Lovelace penned these deathless lines: "Stone walls do not a prison make, nor iron bars a cage."

He was making the point, in verses addressed "To Althea from Prison" — where he was confined for political reasons — that he was not really in fetters so long as his soul was free.

However, his words, taken literally, prove that Lovelace was not only a fine poet but a farsighted prophet. Most of the penitentiaries in his country were built 200 years after he wrote, and inmates keep escaping at the rate of 500 a year. Over a recent weekend, 23 prisoners fled, and only four were recaptured.

Apparently the escapees took seriously a report by Lord Mountbatten on merry England's alarmingly competent convict zeal for freedom. The report found that not a single British prison is really secure, that most are obsolete, and that there is urgent need to make the prisoners feel freer and happier inside.

Lord Mountbatten also suggests various correctives, including a maximum security prison on the Isle of Wight, presumably for those who refuse to feel free and happy inside.

Our Middle East Position

By John Chamberlain

Senator Vance Hartke of Indiana, who has been doing a bit of world traveling and dislikes what he sees, has put it up to Secretary of State Dean Rusk to bring the Israeli and Jordanian governments together. Nothing is likely to come of Hartke's message to Rusk, for the United States has formed an apparently unbreakable habit of letting the UN make its foreign policy. Partly because of the UN's defective structure, and partly because of our own refusal to regard the glass house by Manhattan's East River as a proper place for asserting our own national interests, we never get anything when we seek justice from the "world parliament." There's always a squeeze play, and Dean Rusk is the one who gets squeezed.

It is no secret that, in any Middle Eastern showdown, the United States would be on the side of Israel. But in the UN, we ostentatiously play it "neutral" as between the Israelis and the Arabs. So we trap ourselves. When Israel asks the UN to do something about armed raids across her borders from Jordan or Syria, the Soviet Union stops the works by refusing to go along. Unable to get justice at the UN, the self-respecting Israeli government is forced to take things into its own hands. It authorizes a strike against the Jordanian town of Es Samu. Whereupon the Jordanians complain to the QN. The UN Security Council forthwith censures Israel for the attack. Unwilling to use its veto power, the United States approves the censure — thereby proving to the world that only the allies of the Soviet Union can count on the support of a big "protector" in the UN Security Council.

The fact that we are too gentlemanly to invoke a veto to insure that Israel will get even-handed treatment at the UN could lead to a terrible misunderstanding. And the possibility of such a misunderstanding is all the more dangerous because of the dynamite that we ourselves have been strewing about the Middle East.

The dynamite comes in the form of the military assistance that we have been giving to both sides in the Middle East. It is impossible to get accurate figures about military aid, for the recipient governments don't want the information publicized in detail. But fighter planes have recently gone from the United States to Jordan, ostensibly to keep Arab nationalists from Syria or Egypt from toppling Jordan's King Hussein, who is firmly anti-Communist but shaky on his throne. The State Department will not confirm the shipments, but, during his travels, Senator Hartke has watched the unloading of war material at Middle Eastern docks.

Even Middle Eastern nations that don't directly benefit from U.S. military aid manage to get it surreptitiously. The wheat we send to Nasser, which is supposed to combat hunger among the peasantry, goes to feed the Egyptian army.

What bothers Hartke is the possibility that the Arabs and the Israelis may one day be fighting one another with American arms. We will have financed a war against our own best interests. And, if Israel is threatened with extinction, we will most assuredly come to her rescue, thus plunging us into a new Vietnam situation in the Middle East.

Senator Hartke wouldn't be so worried if he hadn't made a trip to India and Pakistan a couple of years ago. The Indians showed him what they called "Patton's graveyard" — meaning a dump where they had thrown seventy U.S.-made Patton tanks captured from the Pakistanis. The Pakistanis, for their own part, showed Hartke an arsenal of U.S.-manufactured military hardware taken from the Indians. Ironically, we had sent arms to the Pakistanis to defend them against a Russian threat, and arms to the Indians to protect them against the Red Chinese.

The late Isabel Paterson once said that at the Battle of Stalingrad in World War II American energy met itself going around the world in two directions. Meaning that we had built up Germany after World War I, and given lend-lease to the Soviets in World War II. Well, American energy may collide against American energy once again. We may be causing a war in the Middle East by a policy that is supposed to prevent it. Wouldn't it make more sense to say that we are shipping arms to no one, but if Israel is attacked we will go to her aid within twenty-four hours?

You're Telling Me

By William Ritt
Central Press Writer

To mark the centennial of its confederation, Canada is minting a new set of coins, depicting various types of wildlife. That's extra good news for coin collectors — who now can have a little zoo for their own.

The new dollar will be graced by the lordly Canada goose which, hunter friends tell us, is not so easy to bag either.

The Canadian penny will show a dove which, among birds is as meek and unassuming as any one-cent piece.

Another good choice, we think is the rabbit on the new nickels since a bunny doesn't have much weight to throw around — in fact, has no inclination to do so!

The dime's critter is a mackerel. Our choice would have been a rooster or a hen — for such small "chicken feed."

The quarter's emblem is the wildcat. No bad! Not bad! To most of us a two-bit coin is small "scratch."

A most appropriate choice would seem to be the wolf on the new half-dollar. With a pretty good-sized pack of those, a fellow could do some "howling."

Speaking of YOUR HEALTH...

By LESTER L. COLEMAN, M.D.

What causes a flare-up of gout in people who seemed to be free of it for a year or more?

Gout is a disturbance in the manufacture of uric acid. One of the characteristics of this condition is that there can be a recurrent attack of unknown intervals.

The level of uric acid in the blood varies from day to day depending on the nature of the diet. Many patients stay in good health for months with a restricted diet and with continued use of anti-gout medicines.

Then suddenly, without any apparent reason, a painful attack of gout may strike the joints of the leg or feet. Injury, even very slight, may set an attack in motion. Over-indulgence in alcohol, an infection and some drugs may induce an acute attack of gout.

Surgery performed in a person with a gout tendency may occasionally trigger a painful episode.

Whenever a new drug is taken and an unexpected side-effect follows it should immediately be discontinued until the condition is reported to the doctor.

Patients who have gout are usually instructed to take daily doses of drugs which help to prevent the accumulation of uric acid in the blood. If, despite this precaution, a sudden episode of pain and swelling of a joint occurs the doctor should be notified immediately. The early use of colchicine taken only under doctor's orders can very dramatically nip the attack before it really sets in.

A new and remarkable drug, allopurinol, is now available to sufferers of gout. It is expected that this drug will be the greatest boon to sufferers as a preventative of acute and chronic forms of gout.

Can a sudden change of climate cause attacks of asthma? Bronchial asthma is probably one of the most complex disorders of the respiratory system. It has so many forms and variations that almost any situation may set off a sudden attack.

Severe episodes of asthma are desperate ones for patients who simply cannot get enough air in and out of their lungs. In most instances allergy is the offender that causes a temporary narrowing of the bronchial tubes.

Change of climate most certainly can start an attack. A new pollen in a new neighborhood, infection, smog, pollution, altitude and even a sudden drop of temperature may begin an attack.

The relationship between emotional upsets and asthma is well known. To make matters even worse a combination of any of these factors may launch an asthmatic seizure. Many patients learn from past experience the conditions they must avoid and are often successful in reducing the frequency and severity of these attacks.

Is any age group more likely to develop an attack of mononucleosis?

Infectious mononucleosis, poorly named the "kissing disease," undoubtedly occurs more frequently in young adults. Medical students, nurses and college students seem to develop this condition more readily even though its contagiousness is debated by some doctors.

Friendly animals are often unfriendly animal to strangers. They can bite hard.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

NATHANIEL BENCHLEY, the man whose novel forms the basis of that wonderful movie, "The Russians Are Coming," has been doing a little research into the deal by which the Dutch bought the whole of Manhattan along about 1626 for the sum (still considered exorbitant by curmudgeons) of twenty-four dollars — in trinkets and firewater.

The Indians who sold the island did just fine for themselves — because they didn't own it. Peter Minuet's agents made their offer to a passel of Canasees, in from Long Island to gander the 1626 equivalent of Radio City Music Hall, whereas the real owners were the Weckquaesgeek Indians, centered around what is now Washington Heights and the Bronx, and blissfully unaware until too late that their property was being sold right out from under them.

It turns out that the Canasees were strictly small-time con men at that. The real sharpies were the Raritan Indians. They sold STATEN Island to the Dutch SIX consecutive times!

Who first announced "We live in an age of transition?" Chrysler's Lynn Townsend has a shrewd notion that it might have been Adam — as he escorted a downcast Eve out of the Garden of Eden.

Cowboy from Manchester

By EDDY GILMORE
MANCHESTER, England (AP) — Geographically, the Southern Hotel is appropriately down south — way down yonder in South Manchester.

High above the hotel flies a tattered Confederate flag. In the main ballroom is the Lone Star flag of Texas. A miniature Confederate flag decorates every table in the dining room. Above the bar is another burgee with the stars and bars of the Confederacy.

Why? "I'm probably the only middle-aged, South-loving, frustrated English cowboy you've ever met," explained John Ridley 45, "and I'm the proprietor of the Southern hotel."

"I like the South. I like the Southwest. I've been fascinated by everything Southern and Southwestern since I was a child. But, it was just pure luck when I got the Southern Hotel. You see, it had been named that before I got it. I suppose it's because it's in South Manchester."

In addition to being the proprietor of the Southern Hotel, Ridley is also an official of the Quick-Draw Club in Blackpool. "We started the club four years ago," he said. "I practice in my cellar, get through about 1,000 rounds of ammunition every week."

Then the members own guns? "Loads of them. I've got a single-hand rig and a twin-rig. The twin-rig is for the two-gun man. I confess, I'm a two-gun English cowboy."

And horses? "Oh, yes, we've got horses. Not only do most of us have horses, but we have rifles, real American Western rifles and for that matter, handmade leather holsters."

But isn't all this very costly? "You're right it is. Just ask my wife. She's giving me hell about it, pardner."

Ridley said he wanted to get one thing definitely understood. "I like all Americans," he insisted. "I just happen to favor the South."

"During the war in Italy, I was in a hospital in Caserta. It was my birthday and they let me out on crutches."

"I met up with some of your boys in a little cave and got to talking and I said I'd met American men, but I'd never even seen an American girl."

"A big sergeant said, 'We'll fix that.' Do you know, those American soldiers picked up my crutches and they picked me up too and they took me to a place where your WACs were stationed."

"Well, sir, those soldiers knocked on a door and we all went in and sat around for a few minutes being entertained by two delightful American girls. 'The sergeant was a fellow named McDonnell from Texas. Well, he disappeared and after a while I began to get embarrassed at taking up so much of these girls' time."

"Just then some sliding doors opened and I saw about 20 or 30 of these American girls. They were standing around their dining table and on the table was a cake and on the cake there was some candles. They began singing 'Happy birthday.'"

"Not that I know of," he replied, "but I'd be proud to welcome them."

And if they were Southerners?

NEW YORK (AP) — The awards of contracts for the U.S. supersonic airliner were not all they seemed.

Although the government designated Boeing as contractor for the craft and General Electric as the supplier of engines, no announcement was made of a schedule for the project.

As it stands now, the supersonic contracts do not even lift the project off the drawing boards. President Johnson said he could not even predict when construction would begin.

Some observers still are disturbed by the fact that the tremendous thunderclap that will trail the supersonic may make it almost useless for domestic flight.

Despite years of work on how to eliminate the boom that accompanies the smashing of the sound barrier, the problem remains. The supersonic, if it were used on domestic flights, would shake up millions of people and send shivers through hundreds of square miles of landscape.

A question, then, that conservative members of Congress will be asking is whether the nation should commit enormous sums of money to build this craft while also pushing a costly space program and a war in Vietnam.

Any project of this size, especially one which involves innovations that have been proven only on paper or in the laboratory, is wide open to criticism. And the critics aren't silent.

Among the chief criticisms is that the supersonic airliner is not needed. Another is that it is unproven technologically. And still another is the method and cost of financing.

Present indications are that development costs will come close to $5 billion. The government is committed to pay at least 75 per cent of this amount — a sum that has been growing, as seems always to be the case in financing large projects.

Some feeling also exists that one company should not be entrusted with sole responsibility for such a project. And the fact that the thunderclap problem has not been solved, and won't be until a prototype is built, lends credence to suggestions that Lockheed still might be in the picture.

The reasoning here is that most of Boeing's supersonics might initially be used for transoceanic flight. The noise factor isn't so important over water. The big plane could cruise from its take off city at subsonic speed, reaching sound-breaking speed out over the ocean.

If the Boeing supersonic is used only across oceans, it is possible that a smaller, slower supersonic might be built for domestic use. The assumption is that a small plane would be less of an nuisance.

Balanced against these negatives is one overriding positive aspect: the demands of the U.S. balance of payments situation.

A supersonic airliner could make a tremendous difference in our trade balance. If we exported supersonic planes our trade balance would improve by billions of dollars. Without a supersonic we would have to import, and our trade deficit would deepen.

Three other nations are involved in building supersonics: the Soviet Union, Britain and France. American companies already have signed contracts to buy the supersonic Concorde a product of a French-British alliance.

Britain's Leaky Pens

In seventeenth-century Britain, Richard Lovelace penned these deathless lines: "Stone walls do not a prison make, nor iron bars a cage."

He was making the point, in verses addressed "To Althea from Prison" — where he was confined for political reasons — that he was not really in fetters so long as his soul was free.

However, his words, taken literally, prove that Lovelace was not only a fine poet but a farsighted prophet. Most of the penitentiaries in his country were built 200 years after he wrote, and inmates keep escaping at the rate of 500 a year. Over a recent weekend, 23 prisoners fled, and only four were recaptured.

Apparently the escapees took seriously a report by Lord Mountbatten on merry England's alarmingly competent convict zeal for freedom. The report found that not a single British prison is really secure, that most are obsolete, and that there is urgent need to make the prisoners feel freer and happier inside.

Lord Mountbatten also suggests various correctives, including a maximum security prison on the Isle of Wight, presumably for those who refuse to feel free and happy inside.

Our Middle East Position

By John Chamberlain

Senator Vance Hartke of Indiana, who has been doing a bit of world traveling and dislikes what he sees, has put it up to Secretary of State Dean Rusk to bring the Israeli and Jordanian governments together. Nothing is likely to come of Hartke's message to Rusk, for the United States has formed an apparently unbreakable habit of letting the UN make its foreign policy. Partly because of the UN's defective structure, and partly because of our own refusal to regard the glass house by Manhattan's East River as a proper place for asserting our own national interests, we never get anything when we seek justice from the "world parliament." There's always a squeeze play, and Dean Rusk is the one who gets squeezed.

It is no secret that, in any Middle Eastern showdown, the United States would be on the side of Israel. But in the UN, we ostentatiously play it "neutral" as between the Israelis and the Arabs. So we trap ourselves. When Israel asks the UN to do something about armed raids across her borders from Jordan or Syria, the Soviet Union stops the works by refusing to go along. Unable to get justice at the UN, the self-respecting Israeli government is forced to take things into its own hands. It authorizes a strike against the Jordanian town of Es Samu. Whereupon the Jordanians complain to the QN. The UN Security Council forthwith censures Israel for the attack. Unwilling to use its veto power, the United States approves the censure — thereby proving to the world that only the allies of the Soviet Union can count on the support of a big "protector" in the UN Security Council.

The fact that we are too gentlemanly to invoke a veto to insure that Israel will get even-handed treatment at the UN could lead to a terrible misunderstanding. And the possibility of such a misunderstanding is all the more dangerous because of the dynamite that we ourselves have been strewing about the Middle East.

The dynamite comes in the form of the military assistance that we have been giving to both sides in the Middle East. It is impossible to get accurate figures about military aid, for the recipient governments don't want the information publicized in detail. But fighter planes have recently gone from the United States to Jordan, ostensibly to keep Arab nationalists from Syria or Egypt from toppling Jordan's King Hussein, who is firmly anti-Communist but shaky on his throne. The State Department will not confirm the shipments, but, during his travels, Senator Hartke has watched the unloading of war material at Middle Eastern docks.

Even Middle Eastern nations that don't directly benefit from U.S. military aid manage to get it surreptitiously. The wheat we send to Nasser, which is supposed to combat hunger among the peasantry, goes to feed the Egyptian army.

What bothers Hartke is the possibility that the Arabs and the Israelis may one day be fighting one another with American arms. We will have financed a war against our own best interests. And, if Israel is threatened with extinction, we will most assuredly come to her rescue, thus plunging us into a new Vietnam situation in the Middle East.

Senator Hartke wouldn't be so worried if he hadn't made a trip to India and Pakistan a couple of years ago. The Indians showed him what they called "Patton's graveyard" — meaning a dump where they had thrown seventy U.S. made Patton tanks captured from the Pakistanis. The Pakistanis, for their own part, showed Hartke an arsenal of U.S.-manufactured military hardware taken from the Indians. Ironically, we had sent arms to the Pakistanis to defend them against a Russian threat, and arms to the Indians to protect them against the Red Chinese.

The late Isabel Paterson once said that at the Battle of Stalingrad in World War II American energy met itself going around the world in two directions. Meaning that we had built up Germany after World War I, and given lend-lease to the Soviets in World War II. Well, American energy may collide against American energy once again. We may be causing a war in the Middle East by a policy that is supposed to prevent it. Wouldn't it make more sense to say that we are shipping arms to no one, but if Israel is attacked we will go to her aid within twenty-four hours?

To mark the centennial of its confederation, Canada is minting a new set of coins, depicting various types of wildlife. That's extra good news for coin collectors — who now can have a little zoo for their own.

The new dollar will be graced by the lordly Canada goose which, hunter friends tell us, is not so easy to bag either.

The Canadian penny will show a dove which, among birds is as meek and unassuming as any one-cent piece.

Another good choice, we think is the rabbit on the new nickels since a bunny doesn't have much weight to throw around — in fact, has no inclination to do so!

The dime's critter is a mackerel. Our choice would have been a rooster or a hen — for such small "chicken feed."

The quarter's emblem is the wildcat. No bad! Not bad! To most of us a two-bit coin is small "scratch."

A most appropriate choice would seem to be the wolf on the new half-dollar. With a pretty good-sized pack of those, a fellow could do some "howling."

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

NATHANIEL BENCHLEY, the man whose novel forms the basis of that wonderful movie, "The Russians Are Coming," has been doing a little research into the deal by which the Dutch bought the whole of Manhattan along about 1626 for the sum (still considered exorbitant by curmudgeons) of twenty-four dollars — in trinkets and firewater. The Indians who sold the island did just fine for themselves — because they didn't own it. Peter Minuet's agents made their offer to a passel of Canasees, in from Long Island to gander the 1626 equivalent of Radio City Music Hall, whereas the real owners were the Weekquaesgeek Indians, centered around what is now Washington Heights and the Bronx, and blissfully unaware until too late that their property was being sold right out from under them.

It turns out that the Canasees were strictly small-time con men at that. The real sharpies were the Raritan Indians. They sold STATEN Island to the Dutch SIX consecutive times!

Cowboy from Manchester

By EDDY GILMORE
MANCHESTER, England (AP) — Geographically, the Southern Hotel is appropriately down south — way down yonder in South Manchester.

High above the hotel flies a tattered Confederate flag. In the main ballroom is the Lone Star flag of Texas. A miniature Confederate flag decorates every table in the dining room. Above the bar is another burgee with the stars and bars of the Confederacy.

Why?

"I'm probably the only middle-aged, South-loving, frustrated English cowboy you've ever met," explained John Ridley 45, "and I'm the proprietor of the Southern hotel."

"I like the South. I like the Southwest. I've been fascinated by everything Southern and Southwestern since I was a child. But, it was just pure luck when I got the Southern Hotel. You see, it had been named that before I got it. I suppose it's because it's in South Manchester."

In addition to being the proprietor of the Southern Hotel, Ridley is also an official of the Quick-Draw Club in Blackpool. "We started the club four years ago," he said. "I practice in my cellar, get through about 1,000 rounds of ammunition every week."

Then the members own guns? "Loads of them. I've got a single-hand rig and a twin-rig. The twin-rig is for the two-gun man. I confess, I'm a two-gun English cowboy."

And horses? "Oh, yes, we've got horses. Not only do most of us have horses, but we have rifles, real American Western rifles and for that matter, handmade leather holsters."

But isn't all this very costly? "You're right it is. Just ask my wife. She's giving me hell about it, pardner."

Ridley said he wanted to get one thing definitely understood. "I like all Americans," he insisted. "I just happen to favor the South."

"During the war in Italy, I was in a hospital in Caserta. It was my birthday and they let me out on crutches."

"I met up with some of your boys in a little cafe and got to talking and I said I'd met American men, but I'd never even seen an American girl."

"A big sergeant said, 'We'll fix that.' So you know, those American soldiers picked up my crutches and they picked me up too and they took me to a place where your WACs were stationed."

"Well, sir, those soldiers knocked on a door and we all went in and sat around for a few minutes being entertained by two delightful American girls."

Speaking of YOUR HEALTH...

By LESTER L. COLEMAN, M.D.

What causes a flare-up of gout in people who seemed to be free of it for a year or more?

Gout is a disturbance in the manufacture of uric acid. One of the characteristics of this condition is that there can be a recurrent attack of unknown intervals.

The level of uric acid in the blood varies from day to day depending on the nature of the diet. Many patients stay in good health for months with a restricted diet and with continued use of anti-gout medicines.

Then suddenly, without any apparent reason, a painful attack of gout may strike the joints of the leg or feet. Injury, even very slight, may set an attack in motion. Over-indulgence in alcohol, an infection and some drugs may induce an acute attack of gout.

Surgery performed in a person with a gout tendency may occasionally trigger a painful episode.

Whenever a new drug is taken and an unexpected side-effect follows it should immediately be discontinued until the condition is reported to the doctor.

Patients who have gout are usually instructed to take daily doses of drugs which help to prevent the accumulation of uric acid in the blood. If, despite this precaution, a sudden episode of pain and swelling of a joint occurs the doctor should be notified immediately. The early use of colchicine taken only under doctors orders can very dramatically nip the attack before it really sets in.

A new and remarkable drug, allopurinol, is now available to sufferers of gout. It is expected that this drug will be the greatest boon to sufferers as a preventative of acute and chronic forms of gout.

Can a sudden change of climate cause attacks of asthma? Bronchial asthma is probably one of the most complex disorders of the respiratory system. It has so many forms and variations that almost any situation may set off a sudden attack.

Severe episodes of asthma are desperate ones for patients who simply cannot get enough air in and out of their lungs. In most instances allergy is the offender that causes a temporary narrowing of the bronchial tubes.

Change of climate most certainly can start an attack. A new pollen in a new neighborhood, infection, smog, pollution, altitude and even a sudden drop of temperature may begin an attack.

The relationship between emotional upsets and asthma is well known.

To make matters even worse a combination of any of these factors may launch an asthmatic seizure. Many patients learn from past experience the conditions they must avoid and are often successful in reducing the frequency and severity of these attacks.

Is any age group more likely to develop an attack of mononucleosis?

Infectious mononucleosis, poorly named the "kissing disease," undoubtedly occurs more frequently in young adults. Medical students, nurses and college students seem to develop this condition more readily even though its contagiousness is debated by some doctors.

Friendly animals are often unfriendly animal to strangers. They can bite hard.

End of Year Market Topple Erases Half of Early Gains

By ED MORSE
AP Business News Writer
NEW YORK (AP) —The 1966 stock market climbed to historic peaks as it topped out a 3½-year Bull Market and then nosed down to erase more than half the gains scored during that period. Trading topped a billion shares, a record.
Stocks had one of their sharp declines in Wall Street annals, reaching a low in October and then staging a partial recovery.
The market had climbed so high that some kind of correction was expected by analysts even before the year began, purely on a technical basis.
The stock market was cooled down additionally by high interest rates and tighter credit, by a slowing down in the business boom, by concern over the Vietnam fighting and worry over the possibility of a rise in income taxes.
As the year ended there was fear of an economic recession in 1967 but also a question in many

Q. My grandfather has sores at the corner of his mouth. We have tried salves and vitamins but the sores never seem to completely heal. What treatment do you recommend?
A. Chronic lesions at the corner of the mouth in older people often result from excessive folding of the skin. The areas stay moist from saliva and become inflamed from repeated licking or infection. Lack of vitamins is rarely the cause. Have your grandfather examined by a physician. In all probability the condition can be cleared up with prescribed treatment.

BLOOD PRESSURE ARMS VS. LEGS
Q. I have often wondered if the blood pressure in the arms and legs is the same. Is it? Sometimes when I stand for very long my legs seem to build up noticeable pressure.
A. The blood pressure in arm and leg arteries is essentially the same when readings are taken with the subject lying down. There is, however, a relationship between the point at which blood pressure is taken and the distance above or below the heart. If the subject is standing, the blood pressure measured in the leg will normally be higher than the blood pressure measured in the arm above heart level.

The decline of 250.83 in the Dow industrials exceeded the 1962 loss of 199.15. The percentage loss in 1966 was 25 per cent whereas it was 27 per cent in 1962 because the market dropped from a lower level.
On the basis of the point loss in the Dow industrials, 1966 overshadowed 1962 as the worst since 1929. The 1929-1932 crash wiped off some 340 points but it was an 80 per cent drop in values because of the much lower level from which the market fell.
Consequently, neither the 1966 nor 1962 shakeouts were regarded by Wall Street researchers as being in the same league as 1929.
High interest rates and tight credit hurt stocks because they offered the competition of better yields in debt securities than in equities and a safer refuge for cash.
The prime rate was increased in March to 5½ per cent from 5 per cent, to 5 per cent in June and to 6 per cent in August. This is the basic interest rate charged by the top commercial banks to their biggest and best credit risks.
In late July the U.S. Treasury paid 5¼ per cent interest in refunding federal securities, the highest rate paid since the administration of President Warren G. Harding in the early 1920s.

Lower earnings reported by such giants as GM, U.S. Steel and Bethlehem undermined stock values.
Among the biggest blue chips, American Telephone sagged from a high of 63½ to a low of 49; GM from a top of 108¼ to a bottom of 65; Standard Oil (New Jersey) from 84½ to 59½.
Among the higher-priced stocks, IBM fell from 386 to 289½; Zerox from 267¼ to 125¼; and Fairchild Camera from 216 to 97½.

End of Year Market Topple Erases Half of Early Gains

By ED MORSE
AP Business News Writer
NEW YORK (AP) —The 1966 stock market climbed to historic peaks as it topped out a 3½-year Bull Market and then nosed down to erase more than half the gains scored during that period. Trading topped a billion shares, a record.
Stocks had one of their sharpest declines in Wall Street annals, reaching a low in October and then staging a partial recovery.
The market had climbed so high that some kind of correction was expected by analysts even before the year began, purely on a technical basis.
The stock market was cooled down additionally by high interest rates and tighter credit, by a slowing down in the business boom, by concern over the Vietnam fighting and worry over the possibility of a rise in income taxes.
As the year ended there was fear of an economic recession in 1967 but also a question in many

MOUTH SORES
Q. My grandfather has sores at the corner of his mouth. We have tried salves and vitamins but the sores never seem to completely heal. What treatment do you recommend?
A. Chronic lesions at the corner of the mouth in older people often result from excessive folding of the skin. The areas stay moist from saliva and become inflamed from repeated licking or infection. Lack of vitamins is rarely the cause. Have your grandfather examined by a physician. In all probability the condition can be cleared up with prescribed treatment.
BLOOD PRESSURE ARMS VS. LEGS
Q. I have often wondered if the blood pressure in the arms and legs is the same. Is it? Sometimes when I stand for very long my legs seem to build up noticeable pressure.
A. The blood pressure in arm and leg arteries is essentially the same when readings are taken with the subject lying down. There is, however, a relationship between the point at which blood pressure is taken and the distance above or below the heart. If the subject is standing, the blood pressure measured in the leg will normally be higher than the blood pressure measured in the arm above heart level.

plunged $50.83 to a low of 744.32 on Oct. 7.
At their Feb. 9 high, the Dow industrials were within a hair of the "Dow 1,000" objective, which was forecast many years ago as a kind of Wall Street millennium.
In early February, few doubted that the Dow would reach 1,000. As the average hesitated just below 1,000, however, fear grew that crossing the Dow 1,000 would trigger a great wave of profit taking. The "smart money" began to sell in advance of that.
The turnaround was signaled by a fairly sharp drop on Feb. 15, a larger one Feb. 17 and an

The decline of 250.83 in the Dow industrials exceeded the 1962 loss of 199.15. The percentage loss in 1966 was 25 per cent whereas it was 27 per cent in 1962 because the market dropped from a lower level.
On the basis of the point loss in the Dow industrials, 1966 overshadowed 1962 as the worst since 1929. The 1929-1932 crash wiped off some 340 points but it was an 80 per cent drop in values because of the much lower level from which the market fell.
Consequently, neither the 1966 nor 1962 shakeouts were regarded by Wall Street researchers as being in the same league as 1929.

Junior Girl Scout Troop 778, met recently for a party and carol singing.

The Scouts, under the guidance of Mrs. Harry Montavon, visited first for caroling at the Circleville Home and Hospital. Their next stop was the Fire House where they were rewarded by a tour of the station. Finally, the girls were warmly welcomed by the Sisters at St. Joseph's Convent.

A party at the Lutheran Parish House was then held for the girls. An invigil service welcomed Terry Chelkowski to the troop. Other girls took this opportunity to renew their own dedication to the ideals of Girl Scouting.

This was the birthday of Troop 778. The girls received a membership star if they had completed a year in Scouting. Twenty-three stars were presented.

Thirty-three red stockings were under the tree for these Scouts. On each was the proficiency badges the girls had earned.

This badge is a symbol of accomplishment worn by a girl to show an increase in a skill or

Sofas Serve Dual Purpose

By ELEANOR ROSS

Can an ordinary sofa find happiness doing double duty as a sleep sofa? Evidently the answer is yes, because now you can choose the same design in either a sleep sofa or conventional model.

Sleep sofas are mighty handy inventions. They can accommodate overnight guests, children with sniffles who don't want to stay upstairs in their own room, come to the rescue of those in cramped efficiency apartments. They are the perfect answer to any occasion that calls for an extra bed.

The new models look like any handsome sofas should. Mechanisms with a flick of the wrist, transforming these remarkable sofas into dreamily comfortable twin, double, or even queen-size beds. During the day, lounging cushioning of latex foam adds to comfort and convenience.

The designs of sleep sofas are varied. One may choose from Early American, Contemporary, French Provincial, English, Spanish or Italian—to name a few.

Some are totally upholstered to the floor, many are heavily tufted, with wide arms to provide ample seating space when not in use as a bed.

There is one model that is suspended sleigh-fashion in a wood frame, even to the back, so the sofa is attractive from all angles.

Many have caning or fretwork at the sides for a light, airy accent.

The wood finishes are of the best quality, as are the upholstery fabrics, such as cut, crushed or printed velvets or damasks, crevel-type printed linens and vinyls that look terrific when heavily tufted.

Another advantage is the dirt and stain-resistant finishes on the fabrics.

In all cases, the mechanism is livable, making it just about impossible to detect the dual role of this type of furniture.

Suddenly popular because it, too is a sleeper, is the daybed, backless and with headboards at either end. Generally, it is placed with the long side against a wall, sofa-fashion.

Sometimes, bolsters line it on the wall side, and throw pillows or smaller bolsters are arranged at both ends for added comfort.

The daybed, is an attractive addition to a furniture grouping and turns into an excellent bed with mattress of ultra-relaxing and durable latex foam rubber.

Quite a few of these are covered in decorative ticking that may turn out to be a stunning paisley fabric in vibrant colors or even one of cut velvet. All of this is a far cry from the stodgy ticking of yesteryear. Sheets and blankets are easily whisked on.

Without the sheets and blanket, the daybed looks exactly like a most attractive, if backless sofa. But it stands ready to supply a comfortable place to sleep.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Mother Not Being 'Fair' to Her Son

DEAR ABBY: My sister has a 12-year-old son who was born with one deaf ear and about one third hearing in the other ear. His doctors have informed my sister that in the very near future the boy will be totally deaf.

Don't you think the mother is being extremely unfair to hide the truth from her son? She is a college graduate and a prominent socialite and she seems almost ashamed of her son's handicap. She said she couldn't bear the thought of his wearing a hearing aid or studying lip-reading so young.

She thinks highly of your advice, Abby, so please answer. DEVOTED AUNT

DEAR AUNT: That mother is doing her son a shocking disservice. The boy should start preparing immediately to live in a silent world. It will be much more difficult for him to learn after he has suffered a total hearing loss.

Urge your sister to talk to her son's doctors and to follow their recommendations. And I hope for the boy's sake she acts at once.

DEAR ABBY: I am 13 and a boy I know who is 14 asked me to be his girl and I said yes.

Then he asked me if he could kiss me on the lips. Abby, I told him that I had never let a boy kiss me on the lips and it wasn't going to let him either. Well, then he said he was sorry, that he guessed he was just a little bit more grown up than I was, and he would have to find someone more grown up to be his girl.

Well, I didn't really care that much about him, so there wasn't too much heartbreak. But, Abby, I am still confused. SHOULD I have let him kiss me on the lips?

PRIVATE NAME

DEAR PRIVATE NAME: I think you used excellent judgment.

DEAR ABBY: My husband is dead and I had two enlarged pictures of him nicely framed and I keep them in my living room. The other day a neighbor came in and saw them and she said personal pictures did not belong in the living room.

Abby, I haven't had much education and I would appreciate it if you would tell me if I am wrong to keep his pictures there.

I get a lot of pleasure out of looking at his pictures in the living room, but if they really don't belong there I suppose I could put them somewhere else. Thank you.

JUST DUMB

DEAR JUST: Personal pictures should be enjoyed. And they "belong" where ever they afford the most pleasure.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "WITS END WIFE:" Yours is the curse of being married to a man who appears to be younger than his years and also younger than his wife. Don't for goodness sakes, try to let people know in some "subtle" way that he is really older than you. It is bound to create the opposite impression.

New Year Is Many Things to Women

By MRS. MARION SINES
What does the New Year mean to a woman?

Many have in mind the problem of dismantling the Christmas tree and finding an appropriate location for acceptable gifts, in order to get the most practical use from them. What to do with the monstrosity gift sent by a relative — questionably is to be a benefactor at some time or other — or the automatic fork is a real problem.

Thoughts of the woman are what is important. Each, in her individual way, looks at the New Year peculiar only to her personality and circumstances.

The one with a mind like a filing cabinet will plan the coming year with no misgivings about how it will turn out. Her husband will continue to strive to do his best with his job and of course, will receive his raises automatically.

Her children will bring home excellent grade cards, because she will insist on this. The family vacation has been planned, in her mind, and she will continue her usual community activities.

The impractical woman, and there are many of us, will think about the bills that will be coming soon and wondering how she can juggle the paychecks to cover them. And she hopes no emergencies arise to upset her plans.

She just couldn't resist the temptation to buy expensive gifts. This year she will keep up the payments of the Christmas Savings Club. (Intentions are good but execution is difficult).

The woman who wants to show that she loves each one in her family equally will think about gifts she gave to each, wishing she could have given more. The coming year means to her that she can make up for what she believes were inadequate gifts with birthday presents.

The woman who thinks this past year has been a loss is to be pitied. No year, no day, no minute is lost to women who appreciate the fact they were chosen to be what they are. The forlorn homemaker probably thinks this new year will be just another one to drag through.

Then there is the woman who looks on the New Year as a time for newness in family relations and spiritual guidance for her family.

This woman has no real problems. If she sincerely wishes to be a better wife, mother and person her wishes will be granted. Her sheer desire will make them come true.

What kind of woman are you? I find it rather difficult to place myself in any of these categories. Happy New Year!

ing soon and wondering how she can juggle the paychecks to cover them. And she hopes no emergencies arise to upset her plans.

She just couldn't resist the temptation to buy expensive gifts. This year she will keep up the payments of the Christmas Savings Club. (Intentions are good but execution is difficult).

The woman who wants to show that she loves each one in her family equally will think about gifts she gave to each, wishing she could have given more. The coming year means to her that she can make up for what she believes were inadequate gifts with birthday presents.

The woman who thinks this past year has been a loss is to be pitied. No year, no day, no minute is lost to women who appreciate the fact they were chosen to be what they are. The forlorn homemaker probably thinks this new year will be just another one to drag through.

Girl Scout Troop 778 Enjoys Holiday Party

Junior Girl Scout Troop 778, met recently for a party and carol singing.

The Scouts, under the guidance of Mrs. Harry Montavon, visited first for caroling at the Circleville Home and Hospital. Their next stop was the Fire House where they were rewarded by a tour of the station. Finally, the girls were warmly welcomed by the Sisters at St. Joseph's Convent.

A party at the Lutheran Parish House was then held for the girls. An invitational service welcomed Terry Chelkowski to the troop. Other girls took this opportunity to renew their own dedication to the ideals of Girl Scouting.

This was the birthday of Troop 778. The girls received a membership star if they had completed a year in Scouting. Twenty-three stars were presented.

Thirty-three red stockings were under the tree for these Scouts. On each was the proficiency badges the girls had earned.

This badge is a symbol of accomplishment worn by a girl to show an increase in a skill or

Sofas Serve Dual Purpose

By ELEANOR ROSS

Can an ordinary sofa find happiness doing double duty as a sleep sofa? Evidently the answer is yes, because now you can choose the same design in either a sleep sofa or conventional model.

Sleep sofas are mighty handy inventions. They can accommodate overnight guests, children with sniffles who don't want to stay upstairs in their own room, come to the rescue of those in cramped efficiency apartments. They are the perfect answer to any occasion that calls for an extra bed.

The new models look like any handsome sofas should. Mechanisms work with a flick of the wrist, transforming these remarkable sofas into dreamlike comfortable twin, double, or even queen-size beds. During the day, lounge cushioning of latex foam adds to comfort and convenience.

The designs of sleep sofas are varied. One may choose from Early American, Contemporary, French Provincial, English, Spanish or Italian—to name a few.

Some are totally upholstered to the floor, many are heavily tufted, with wide arms to provide ample seating space when not in use as a bed.

There is one model that is suspended sleigh-fashion in a wood frame, even to the back, so the sofa is attractive from all angles.

Many have caning or fretwork at the sides for a light, airy accent.

The wood finishes are of the best quality, as are the upholstery fabrics, such as cut, crushed or printed velvets or damasks, crewele-type printed lincins and vinyls that look terrific when heavily tufted.

Another advantage is the dirt- and stain-resistant finishes on the fabrics.

In all cases, the mechanism is invisible, making it just about impossible to detect the dual role of this type of furniture.

Suddenly popular because it, too is a sleeper, is the daybed, backless and with headboards at either end. Generally, it is placed with the long side against a wall, sofa-fashion.

Sometimes, bolsters line it on the wall side, and throw pillows or smaller bolsters are arranged at both ends for added comfort.

The daybed, is an attractive addition to a furniture grouping and turns into an excellent bed with mattress of ultra-relaxing and durable latex foam rubber.

Quite a few of these are covered in decorative ticking that may turn out to be a stunning paisley fabric in vibrant colors or even one of cut velvet. All of this is a far cry from the stodgy ticking of yesteryear. Sheets and blankets are easily whisked on.

Without the sheets and blankets, the daybed looks exactly like a most attractive, if backless sofa. But it stands ready to supply a comfortable place to sleep.

Dear Abby: By Abigail Van Buren

Mother Not Being 'Fair' to Her Son

DEAR ABBY: My sister has a 12-year-old son who was born with one deaf ear and about one third hearing in the other ear. His doctors have informed my sister that in the very near future the boy will be totally deaf.

Don't you think the mother is being extremely unfair to hide the truth from her son? She is a college graduate and a prominent socialite and she seems almost ashamed of her son's handicap. She said she couldn't bear the thought of his wearing a hearing aid or studying lip-reading so young.

She thinks highly of your advice, Abby, so please answer.

DEVOTED AUNT

DEAR AUNT: That mother is doing her son a shocking disservice. The boy should start preparing immediately to live in a silent world. It will be much more difficult for him to learn after he has suffered a total hearing loss.

Urge your sister to talk to her son's doctors and to follow their recommendations. And I hope for the boy's sake she acts at once.

DEAR ABBY: I am 13 and a boy I know who is 14 asked me to be his girl and I said yes.

Then he asked me if he could kiss me on the lips. Abby, I told him that I had never let a boy kiss me on the lips and it wasn't going to let him either. Well, then he said he was sorry, that he guessed he was just a little bit more grown up than I was, and he would have to find someone more grown up to be his girl.

Well, I didn't really care that much about him, so there wasn't too much heartbreak. But, Abby, I am still confused. SHOULD I have let him kiss me on the lips?

PRIVATE NAME
DEAR PRIVATE NAME: I think you used excellent judgment.

DEAR ABBY: My husband is dead and I had two enlarged pictures of him nicely framed and I keep them in my living room. The other day a neighbor came in and saw them and she said personal pictures did not belong in the living room.

Abby, I haven't had much education and I would appreciate it if you would tell me if I am wrong to keep his pictures there.

I get a lot of pleasure out of looking at his pictures in the living room, but if they really don't belong there I suppose I could put them somewhere else. Thank you.

JUST DUMB
DEAR JUST: Personal pictures should be enjoyed. And they "belong" where ever they afford the most pleasure.

New Year Is Many Things to Women

By MRS. MARION SINES
What does the New Year mean to a woman?

Many have in mind the problem of dismantling the Christmas tree and finding an appropriate location for acceptable gifts, in order to get the most practical use from them. What to do with the monstrosity gift sent by a relative — questionably is to be a benefactor at some time or other — or the automatic fork is a real problem.

Thoughts of the woman are what is important. Each, in her individual way, looks at the New Year peculiar only to her personality and circumstances.

The one with a mind like a filing cabinet will plan the coming year with no misgivings about how it will turn out. Her husband will continue to strive to do his best with his job and of course, will receive his raises automatically.

Her children will bring home excellent grade cards, because she will insist on this. The family vacation has been planned, in her mind, and she will continue her usual community activities.

The impractical woman, and there are many of us, will think about the bills that will be coming soon and wondering how she can juggle the paychecks to cover them. And she hopes no emergencies arise to upset her plans.

She just couldn't resist the temptation to buy expensive gifts. This year she will keep up the payments of the Christmas Savings Club. (intentions are good but execution is difficult).

The woman who wants to show that she loves each one in her family equally will think about gifts she gave to each, wishing she could have given more. The coming year means to her that she can make up for what she believes were inadequate gifts with birthday presents.

The woman who thinks this past year has been a loss is to be pitied. No year, no day, no minute is lost to women who appreciate the fact they were chosen to be what they are. The forlorn homemaker probably thinks this new year will be just another one to drag through.

Then there is the woman who looks on the New Year as a time for newness in family relations and spiritual guidance for her family.

This woman has no real problems. If she sincerely wishes to be a better wife, mother and person her wishes will be granted. Her sheer desire will make them come true.

What kind of woman are you? I find it rather difficult to place myself in any of these categories. Happy New Year!

Jack Ruby Comes Home

Kunstler added in a statement that such a verdict — of murder without malice — "would have helped to establish that what Ruby did in Dallas on Nov. 24, 1963, was solely the result of spontaneous reaction to the president's assassination."

In Los Angeles, Joseph A. BaB, who was senior staff counsel to the Warren Commission, said he did not see how Ruby's death could have any effect on the validity of the commission's report on Kennedy's assassination.

BaB said he was sure that some persons who have been writing critical books about the report "will spread the word that there was something sinister about Ruby's death."

BaB said he saw no reason to reopen the Warren inquiry unless new evidence developed. He said he had received no communication from any commission officials about any such review.

Ruby had been moved to Parkland Hospital Dec. 9 from the Dallas County jail, where he spent more than three years after killing Oswald before a nationwide television audience. It was the same hospital where Oswald succumbed shortly after Ruby shoved through a crowd and fired as police escorted Oswald through the City Hall basement Nov. 24, 1963.

Oswald, a malcontent ex-Marine, subsequently was named by the Warren Commission as the assassin whose rifle shots fatally wounded President Kennedy two days earlier on a Dallas street.

Aside from his brother, Earl, and the two sisters, only reporters and photographers stood by as the pine-covered casket was placed aboard the airliner in Dallas late Tuesday night.

No others were present to say farewell to the brawling night spot owner whose gunfire forever sealed the lips of Oswald, credited officially with committing the assassination entirely on his own.

Ruby died without knowing whether the world believed his story about why he committed the act.

He told his family that he was motivated by an angry passion to save Mrs. Kennedy from having to return to Dallas for the Oswald trial. He also maintained that his path crossed Oswald's only by an accident of timing.

Doctors said Ruby woke up Tuesday in a "jovial" mood, had a bath, and ordered eggs for breakfast. He suffered a "generalized convulsive seizure" at 9:10 a.m. and was dead by 10:30, said Dr. Eugene Frenkel.

Ruby made a clandestine recording at the hospital only days before his death in which he said it was an accident of timing that he had a chance to shoot Oswald as police officers were escorting the handcuffed, 24-year-old suspect to a waiting car in the basement of the city jail, in a routine transfer to the county jail.

Ruby said in the recording that he had understood that Oswald was to be transferred about 10 a.m.

Ruby made a trip from his apartment to the Western Union station, half a block from the police station, to telegraph a $25 money order to a Fort Worth stripper who needed rent money.

Evidence was produced at Ruby's 1964 Dallas murder trial that the money order was stamped at the Western Union at 11:17 a.m.

Police said Ruby shot Oswald at 11:21 a.m.

The recording said, in Ruby's words:

"The ironic part of this business (is) that I made an illegal turn behind a bus at the parking lot. Had I gone the way I was supposed to go — straight down Main Street — I would never — I would never have met this fate because the difference of timing this fate was 30 seconds one way or the other."

He said in the tape-recorded conversation with his brother, Earl, that the shooting of Oswald "happened in such a blur that before I knew it I was down on the ground. The officers had me on the ground."

Earl asked him if he knew Oswald before and Ruby replied: "I never have known him or seen him before."

Ruby said there was no truth whatsoever to stories that Oswald had been in his club. He called this "a fabrication."

Ruby was asked by his brother if he ever planned to shoot Oswald, and he replied: "I was so emotionally upset for three days."

The conversation, recorded in Ruby's maximum-security room at Parkland sometime between last Dec. 15 and 18, was made public for the first time Tuesday by Capitol Records at a news conference.

The three-minute conversation will be part of a long-playing record entitled, "The Controversy: The Death and the Warren Report," being produced by the record firm.

In an exclusive report by Associated Press writer Bernard Gavzer Dec. 19, Ruby had said much the same thing as he did in the taped conversation with his brother.

He was described in The Associated Press report as praying that he be given a final lie detector test so that people would be convinced there was no conspiracy involved in his killing of Oswald. He also maintained then that he never knew Oswald and that the killing was a blank in his mind.

Capitol Records said Elmer Gertz, Ruby's attorney in Chicago, took part in the arrangements with the family, believing "if the public could hear Ruby's own voice there could be no question that he directly communicated the facts as he remembered them."

British Also Rebel Against George III

LONDON (AP) — Three London newspapers today urged Parliament to repeal George III's royal marriage law so Queen Elizabeth II won't have to decide whether her first cousin can marry the mother of his illegitimate son.

The Royal Marriages Act of 1772 was denounced on all sides as a museum piece of royal spite. It was brought to public attention again by the Earl of Harewood's announcement Monday that he is being divorced for adultery and wants to marry a former model who bore him a son 2½ years ago.

The 42-year-old earl is 18th in line of succession to the throne. His 40-year-old wife is expected to bring her divorce petition before the courts next month.

Under the ancient act, all members of the royal family descended from George II must have the monarch's permission to wed. This means that, technically at least, Harewood must seek the queen's consent before marrying Patricia Tuckwell, a 39-year-old divorcee from Australia.

As head of the Church of England, which opposes the remarriage of anyone whose partner is living, the queen would face clerical pressure to refuse her consent.

The Conservative Daily Mail, the Laborite Sun and the Evening Standard, a Beaverbrook newspaper which takes an independent line, all urged repeal of the 195-year-old act. So did Cyril Hankinson, former editor of De-Brett's Peerage.

Calling the act a "frowsty piece of legislation pushed through Parliament by George III," Hankinson said the king who later went mad after England lost her American colonies "was furious at secret marriages made by his brothers, the dukes of Cumberland and Gloucester, to commoners."

"Most people today think that the royal family should have the same rights as the queen's other subjects when it comes to a personal matter like marriage."

How Weather Looks Today

CENTRAL OHIO — Cloudy and cold tonight and Thursday. Low tonight near 20. High Thursday in the low 30s.

SOUTHEAST OHIO — Increasing cloudiness and cold tonight. Low in the low 20s. Thursday cloudy and cold. High in the low 30s.

FIVE-DAY FORECAST

Temperatures Thursday through Monday will average above normal northern two- and three- and near normal southern third of Ohio. Daily highs north will average in the middle 30s or low 40s, while lows will be in the middle 20s or low 30s.

In the southern third, daytime highs will average mostly in the low 40s, nighttime lows generally in the upper 20s. Cool weather most of the period, except for a warming trend Friday and Saturday. Precipitation will average .5 to .75 inch mostly as snow flurries northern portions, showers southern portions and occurring most days of the period.

City Worker Demonstrations Could Become Long Battle

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A mass "demonstration" by disgruntled city workers in Toledo last week is the latest skirmish in what may be a long battle by newly-militant city workers against their employers.

The 950 Toledo workers walked off the job to get an eight per cent pay raise, their second pay walkout this year in a city where police and firemen threatened mass resignations to get a wage hike.

Another pay battle is under way between Akron police and firemen and city officials. Seventy Middletown workers have threatened to strike unless their checks get fatter.

Last week, Canton police and firemen withdrew resignation threats and accepted a $500 a year raise with related benefits.

Earlier this year, Dayton police and firemen successfully threatened their way to a raise, and Dayton officials are still trying to pacify other city employees who staged a walkout in July.

Massillon city court employees waged a year-long court battle to get themselves moved up on a pay scale that touched off resignation threats by policemen in 1965.

Akron averted a strike by municipal employees in October only by recognizing as a bargaining agent the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees — which some blame for much of Ohio cities' labor woes.

City officials generally attribute the new militancy to such factors as:

— Increasing unionization in city government, usually by the federation.

— Employees' suspicions that they could earn more in industry.

— A pattern of general labor unrest in both industry and government, linked to rising living costs.

In Dayton and elsewhere, the federation has simply said it's time city workers got a bigger slice of the municipal money pie.

But for local government, the money pie has never been big, and it hasn't grown much in a society that requires expensive additions like city planners, sanitarians, traffic engineers, urban renewal and vast utility networks.

The workers, however, say they're sacrificing earning power by working at city jobs. It has been estimated, by non-union sources, that a janitor at the top industry in Washington Court House can almost match the pay of the city's police chief.

The federation head in Akron, Don Lewis, claims the entire Ohio rebellion is in outgrowth of a fire-breathing 1965 visit to the state by Jerry Wurf, international president of the union. He says Wurf's calls for militancy were heeded by non-members.

Dayton workers are asking a $25 weekly increase to match raises given police and firemen and Toledo workers want an eight per cent boost to match raises granted uniformed employees.

Cities have had to open up new—and often unpopular—revenue sources. Toledo and Mount Vernon raised their income taxes. Canton is considering either a boost in its income tax or a new real estate levy.

Some, like the smaller city of Logan, have instituted a new one per cent income tax—the maximum allowable in Ohio.

As in all wars, there are pockets of peace. Chillicothe drew up a new pay scale this year, although a militant demand for it was lacking. It raised pay,

Ad Executive Is Speaker for Farm-City Forum

A Columbus advertising director, Melvin Tharp, has been scheduled as principal speaker when the Pickaway County Farm Bureau holds its annual Farm-City Forum Jan. 16.

The annual event is scheduled in the Fairgrounds 4-H and Grange Building, according to Earl Palm, chairman.

MELVIN THARP

Palm stressed that the luncheon will begin at 11:30 a.m. and adjourn promptly at 12:45 to allow people attending adequate time to return to their work.

Purpose of the annual luncheon is to bring together city businessmen and rural farmers to promote better understanding between the two groups.

PALM said the Farm Bureau is fortunate this year to have Tharp as the speaker for the event.

Tharp is advertising director for the Columbus Dispatch and Citizen-Journal, serving this capacity since 1955. He is president of the Executives' Club of Columbus and on the Board of the Boys' Clubs of Columbus, The Better Business Bureau of Columbus, Columbus Rotary Club, and University Club of Columbus. He is also president of the United Appeals of Franklin County.

He has been active in Columbus advertising circles for many years, and is a past president of the Advertising Club of the Columbus Area Chamber of Commerce. He is a former vice president of the Advertising Federation of America, a former president of the Columbus Sales Executives.

He was named "Advertising Man of the Year for 1965," by the Fifth District of the Advertising Federation of America and in 1966, was awarded the Printers' Ink Silver Medal Award. Each year Tharp travels thousands of miles for speaking engagements.

With a large crowd expected, the chairman has advised persons planning to attend to purchase tickets early.

The tickets may be obtained from any Farm Bureau Board member, at the Farm Bureau office or from George Hamrick, Russell Palm, Reuben Jones, Dick Tootle, Harold Hines, Lewis Hay, Newell Stevenson and Earl Palm.

Assisting Palm with the program for the luncheon are George Hamrick, Joseph Peters, Harry Sharrett, Robert A. Jones and Nelson Stevens.

Jack Ruby Comes Home

Kunstler added in a statement that such a verdict — of murder without malice — "would have helped to establish that what Ruby did in Dallas on Nov. 24, 1963, was solely the result of spontaneous reaction to the president's assassination."

In Los Angeles, Joseph A. Ball, who was senior staff counsel to the Warren Commission, said he did not see how Ruby's death could have any effect on the validity of the commission's report on Kennedy's assassination.

Ball said he was sure that some persons who have been writing critical books about the report "will spread the word that there was something sinister about Ruby's death."

Ball said he saw no reason to reopen the Warren inquiry unless new evidence developed. He said he had received no communication from any commission officials about any such review. Ruby had been moved to Parkland Hospital Dec. 9 from the Dallas County jail, where he spent more than three years after killing Oswald before a nationwide television audience.

It was the same hospital where Oswald succumbed shortly after Ruby shoved through a crowd and fired as police escorted Oswald through the City Hall basement Nov. 24, 1963.

Oswald, a malcontent ex-Marine, subsequently was named by the Warren Commission as the assassin whose rifle shots fatally wounded President Kennedy two days earlier on a Dallas street.

Aside from his brother, Earl, and the two sisters, only reporters and photographers stood by as the pine-covered casket was placed aboard the airliner in Dallas late Tuesday night.

No others were present to say farewell to the brawling night spot owner whose gunfire forever sealed the lips of Oswald, credited officially with committing the assassination entirely on his own.

Ruby died without knowing whether the world believed his story about why he committed the act.

He told his family that he was motivated by an angry passion to save Mrs. Kennedy from having to return to Dallas for the Oswald trial. He also maintained that his path crossed Oswald's only by an accident of timing.

Demands made by the workers have been sizable. Akron police get an average of $6,552 and want $8,300. Canton police asked for $600 more a year, settled for $500. Salem police want an across-the-board raise of $75 a month, with paid hospitalization and longevity benefits.

People Should Conform To Type, Doctor Says

By JEAN SPRAIN WILSON
AP Fashion Editor

NEW YORK (AP) — A man who wants to be boss at home should choose a wife who wears hats. He should beware of those determinedly independent lassies with hair fluttering unfettered to their shoulders.

That is the advice of Dr. William Jennings Bryan Jr., a California doctor, lawyer, and hypnotist who makes instant personality appraisals by taking into account the clothes people wear.

This talent has been of particular value to F. Lee Bailey, the famous defense lawyer who has never lost a case. Although Bailey does not need any help in choosing a wife — he has a lovely one who wears hats — he has called upon Dr. Bryan on several occasions to help him select prospective jurors.

Dr. Bryan was with Bailey in Cleveland, Ohio, for the Dr. Samuel H. Sheppard trial and in Freehold, N.J., recently to assist in picking the jury which eventually acquitted Dr. Carl Coppolino of charges of having murdered a neighbor.

The portly 40-year-old doctor, who directs the American Institute of Hypnotism in Los Angeles, believes that although clothes do not make the man, they reveal almost unfailingly what the man is like.

"Suspect a person of having very little self-confidence if his dress is not characteristic of his profession," says the doctor.

"If a man is a banker and doesn't dress like the average one — expensive and conservative — then I conclude he doesn't really think of himself as a banker, or at least not a good one. He probably secretly believes he ought to be something else. He has problems."

As for women, he says, "The exhibitionist, the girl who flaunts her sex on the outside is covering up for a lack of fire on the inside."

The really sexy woman, he claims, is tastefully dressed, very well-groomed, a real Patriotic. "She has confidence, self-knowledge, and with good reason."

That girl with free flowing hair and little use for hats is, in the doctor's opinion, young, independent and determined not to be dominated by men.

How does Dr. Bryan dress? "I'm the Ivy League type dresser. I like university life. I am fascinated by minds, and how these can help people achieve their goals."

Mao Tse-Tung Is Winning Party Battle

TOKYO (AP) — Conflicting reports from Communist China indicate Mao Tse-tung and Lin Biao have struck a possibly crippling blow at President Liu Shao-chi through the big Chinese labor movement.

The Soviet news agency Tass and the Czech news agency Ceteka both have announced that the 21-million member All China Federation of Trade Unions — ACFTU — has been dissolved and its official newspaper shut down.

A later report from Japanese correspondents in Peking said the ACFTU had not been disbanded but that its leadership had been taken over by a new Mao-Lin oriented group called the All-China Association of Red Revolutionaries — ACARR.

If either report is true, it means Liu has lost a critical round in his fight to survive mounting pressure against him.

Liu, who made his niche in Red China as a labor organizer and was formerly ACFTU chairman, is believed to have heavy trade union support in the present confrontation with Mao and Lin.

Though it is a labor organization, the ACFTU's primary function is to carry out the party's orders on production. As such, it is the link between the party and the nation's 26,250,000 industrial workers.

Mao's young Red Guards have encountered resistance from workers in many parts of the country where Liu presumably continues popular.

The name of the new labor group suggests that it is on the Red Guard model, probably made up of a minority of nonunionists who follow Mao and Lin.

On Dec. 30 — three days after the reported move against the ACFTU — the official New China News Agency reported that the Chinese union had issued a statement protesting the decision of the Soviet-dominated World Federation of Trade Unions barring it from its Dec. 8 general council meeting in Sofia, Bulgaria.

This suggested that the reports the ACFTU has been taken over, rather than abolished, are true.

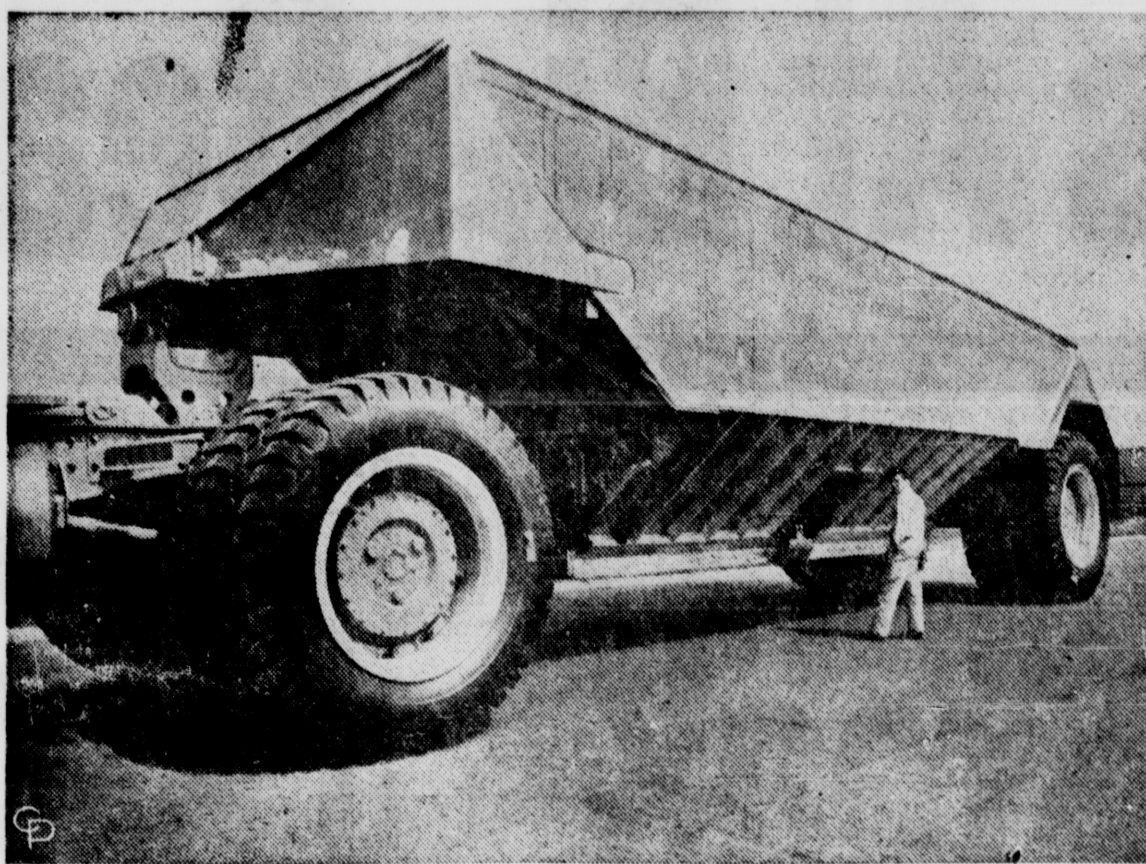

Rotary To Hear Pharmacy Phases

"The Two Phases of Pharmacy" will be the program theme when Circleville Rotary members meet Thursday at the L-K Restaurant for their weekly session.

Ted Foster will present the "professional" phase of pharmacy. Robert McKelvey will describe the "commercial" segment.

Members will observe their annual Rotary-Anne party starting 6:30 p. m. Jan. 12 at the L-K. There will be no noon meeting that day.

Chamber Committee Heads Named for Coming Year

New committee chairmen were named when the Circleville Area Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors conducted its initial meeting of 1967 Tuesday at Pickaway Arms.

The panel heads were announced by Robert M. Johnson, Chamber president for 1967. He noted that all committees are now in the process of setting up their programs of action for the year.

The chairmen are:
Alden Bray, Airport; Lewis

Cook, Agri - Business; Eldred Parsons, Area Development; Ned Harder, City - County Planning; Clare Silkwood, Community Appearance. Edward J. Frericks, Congressional Action; Larry Varble, Education; Michael Harrison, Program; Paul Smallwood, Public Relations; Ward Skinner, Retail Merchants; Dr. Robert Phillips, Safety and Health; Keith Wagner, Welcome and Membership.

Committee reports heard during the luncheon session included one from Bray who sounded the need for a public display of interest concerning the desire for an airport in Pickaway County. He said a local delegation has been scheduled to meet with the county commissioners Jan. 9 for a discussion on the project.

FRERICKS' Congressional Action panel was authorized to act for the Chamber board in regard to handling correspondence with governing representatives. The committee head, in seeking a guideline to follow, said the time element on such matters often rule out action by the directorship as a whole.

Dr. Robert Liggett, representing the Junior Chamber, reported on the Christmas period Santa Claus project here. John Fissell of the Jaycees headed up the successful program.

President Johnson reported that Dr. Carl S. Winters, a member of the General Motors Corp. lecture staff, will be guest speaker at the Annual Chamber Dinner Meeting scheduled Jan. 26 at the Fairgrounds 4H and Grange Building. Tickets may now be obtained from Chamber directors.

Dr. Robert Smith, a guest at the dinner session, was appointed this community's ambassador as part of a trip he plans to undertake in March. The local surgeon will be a member of Gov. James Rhodes' Trade Mission to the Far East.

Dr. Smith and other members of the Trade Mission plan to leave Cleveland Mar. 1 and return Mar. 25. Their itinerary will include Alaska, Japan, Hong Kong, Taiwan, Thailand and The Philippines. In other business, vice president Robert Wilson was appointed to serve as the Chamber's representative to the Circleville Parking Lot Corp.

Looking for Loophole In Order To Tie Loop

WASHINGTON (AP) — A young graduate of the U. S. Naval Academy and his bride leave today for Kansas, on a honeymoon made possible by their last-minute scramble through a loophole in Maryland's law against racially mixed marriages.

Ens. Manuel R. Lopez of West Hyattsville, Md., and Sally Smayling of Wichita, Kan., were refused a marriage license last Friday because Lopez' father, Cornelio Lopez, a Washington lawyer, is Filipino.

The younger Lopez was informed he "does not qualify for a marriage license under a Maryland statute which bars marriage between whites and Negroes 'or persons of Negro descent to the third generation inclusive' and between whites and 'members of the Malay race.'"

"I hated to do it," said Deputy Court Clerk William Clay, who issued the denial of license, "but I only work here."

But attorney Frank Flury, at the request of Lopez' father, appealed to the state attorney general's office and to senior Circuit Judge Ralph W. Powers.

All three agreed that Ens. Lopez, because of his mixed blood, is only second-generation Malay and the law, though barring third-generation Negroes, didn't say anything about second-generation Malays.

Clay, directed by the judge and by Asst. Atty. Gen. Thomas

Garland, opened the courthouse Saturday and issued the license. Lopez and his bride were married Sunday.

Lopez, on leave from seat duty off Vietnam, will rejoin his ship, the US Wiltzie, in San Diego. Mrs. Lopez will remain in Wichita, where she has one more semester of college.

School Survey Recommendations Face Objections

COLUMBUS, Ohio AP — The School Survey Commission studying financial problems for the new Legislature considered Tuesday a series of recommendations from previous meetings that met with objections from Chairman Oakley Collins, Republican senator from Ironton.

Proposals included an increase in minimum teacher pay scales from $6,700 to $7,000 a year for beginning teachers and from $7,600 to $8,000 for those with a master's degree.

Also proposed was a change in the classroom unit formula from 30 pupils between grades 1-8, and 27 pupils for grades between 9-12. Members estimated the change might cost about $30 million a year.

Collins indicated that final commission action might be taken at another meeting next week, following a session of the state school board set for Monday.

Bailey does not need any help in choosing a wife — he has a lovely one who wears hats — he has called upon Dr. Bryan on several occasions to help him select prospective jurors.

Dr. Bryan was with Bailey in Cleveland, Ohio, for the Dr. Samuel H. Sheppard trial and in Freehold, N.J., recently to assist in picking the jury which eventually acquitted Dr. Carl Coppolino of charges of having murdered a neighbor.

The portly 40-year-old doctor, who directs the American Institute of Hypnotism in Los Angeles, believes that although clothes do not make the man, they reveal almost unfailingly what the man is like.

"Suspect a person of having very little self-confidence if his dress is not characteristic of his profession," says the doctor.

"If a man is a banker and doesn't dress like the average one — expensive and conservative — then I conclude he doesn't really think of himself as a banker, or at least not a good one. He probably secretly believes he ought to be something else. He has problems."

As for women, he says, "The exhibitionist, the girl who flaunts her sex on the outside is covering up for a lack of fire on the inside."

The really sexy woman, he claims, is tastefully dressed, very well-groomed, a real Patricia. "She has confidence, self-knowledge, and with good reason."

That girl with free flowing hair and little use for hats is, in the doctor's opinion, young, independent and determined not to be dominated by men.

How does Dr. Bryan dress? "I'm the Ivy League type dresser. I like university life. I am fascinated by minds, and how these can help people achieve their goals."

Mao Tse-Tung Is Winning Party Battle

TOKYO (AP) — Conflicting reports from Communist China indicate Mao Tse-tung and Lin Biao have struck a possibly crippling blow at President Liu Shao-chi through the big Chinese labor movement.

The Soviet news agency Tass and the Czech news agency Ceteka both have announced that the 21-million member All China Federation of Trade Unions — ACFTU — has been dissolved and its official newspaper shut down.

A later report from Japanese correspondents in Peking said the ACFTU had not been disbanded but that its leadership had been taken over by a new Mao-Lin oriented group called the All-China Association of Red Revolutionaries — ACARR.

If either report is true, it means Liu has lost a critical round in his fight to survive mounting pressure against him.

Liu, who made his niche in Red China as a labor organizer and was formerly ACFTU chairman, is believed to have heavy trade union support in the present confrontation with Mao and Lin.

Though it is a labor organization, the ACFTU's primary function is to carry out the party's orders on production. As such, it is the link between the party and the nation's 25,250,000 industrial workers.

Mao's young Red Guards have encountered resistance from workers in many parts of the country where Liu presumably continues popular.

The name of the new labor group suggests that it is on the Red Guard model, probably made up of a minority of nonunionists who follow Mao and Lin.

On Dec. 30 — three days after the reported move against the ACFTU — the official New China News Agency reported that the Chinese union had issued a statement protesting the decision of the Soviet-dominated World Federation of Trade Unions barring it from its Dec. 8 general council meeting in Sofia, Bulgaria.

This suggested that the reports the ACFTU has been taken over, rather than abolished, are true.

Chamber Committee Heads Named for Coming Year

New committee chairmen were named when the Circleville Area Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors conducted its initial meeting of 1967 Tuesday at Pickaway Arms.

The panel heads were announced by Robert M. Johnson, Chamber president for 1967. He noted that all committees are now in the process of setting up their programs of action for the year. The chairmen are:

Alden Bray, Airport; Lewis

Cook, Agri - Business; Eldred Parsons, Area Development; Ned Harder, City - County Planning; Clare Silkwood, Community Appearance. Edward J. Frericks, Congressional Action; Larry Varble, Education; Michael Harrison, Program; Paul Smallwood, Public Relations; Ward Skinner, Retail Merchants; Dr. Robert Phillips, Safety and Health; Keith Waggoner, Welcome and Membership.

Committee reports heard during the luncheon session included one from Bray who sounded the need for a public display of interest concerning the desire for an airport in Pickaway County. He said a local delegation has been scheduled to meet with the county commissioners Jan. 9 for a discussion on the project.

FRERICKS' Congressional Action panel was authorized to act for the Chamber board in regard to handling correspondence with governing representatives. The committee head, in seeking a guideline to follow, said the time element on such matters often rule out action by the directorship as a whole.

Members presented one-year awards were: Jill Blue, Beth Clifton, Lee Ann Hoffman, Kelly Jones, Deborah Judd, Karen Kimsey, Conna Wickline and Sandra Williams.

Refreshments were served by the troop committee. The troop is led by Mrs. Charles Emhardt. She is assisted by Mrs. George Wickline.

Looking for Loophole In Order To Tie Loop

WASHINGTON (AP) — A young graduate of the U. S. Naval Academy and his bride leave today for Kansas, on a honeymoon made possible by their last-minute scramble through a loophole in Maryland's law against racially mixed marriages.

Enns, Manuel R. Lopez of West Hyattsville, Md., and Sally Smayling of Wichita, Kan., were refused a marriage license last Friday because Lopez' father, Cornelio Lopez, a Washington lawyer, is Filipino.

The younger Lopez was informed he "does not qualify for a marriage license" under a Maryland statute which bars marriage between whites and Negroes "or persons of Negro descent to the third generation inclusive" and between whites and "members of the Malay race."

"I hated to do it," said Deputy Court Clerk William Clay, who issued the denial of license, "but I only work here."

But attorney Frank Flury, at the request of Lopez' father, appealed to the state attorney general's office and to senior Circuit Judge Ralph W. Powers. All three agreed that Enns, Lopez, because of his mixed blood, is only second-generation Malay and the law, though barring third-generation Negroes, didn't say anything about second-generation Malays.

Clay, directed by the judge and by Asst. Atty. Gen. Thomas

Garland, opened the courthouse Saturday and issued the license. Lopez and his bride were married Sunday.

Lopez, on leave from seat duty off Vietnam, will rejoin his ship, the US Wiltsie, in San Diego. Mrs. Lopez will remain in Wichita, where she has one more semester of college.

The World Today

By WILLIAM F. ARBOGAST
WASHINGTON (AP) — A decision that could affect the course of legislation in the 90th Congress will be made next Monday when House Democrats hold their pre-session caucus.

They will decide whether to try to retain the 21-day rule or discard it.

The rule puts a limit of 21 days on the time the Rules Committee may block House action on legislation approved by other committees. It was adopted originally at the insistence of Speaker Sam Rayburn to protect President John F. Kennedy's legislative program from strangulation by the Rules Committee then dominated by conservatives. It has been retained at the insistence of the Democratic leadership.

But last year's election results made the rule less appealing to its original sponsors. Among other things, the elections vacated the seats of Rules Chairman Howard W. Smith, a conservative Virginia Democrat, and James W. Trimbel, an Arkansas moderate.

Democrats held 10 seats on the Rules Committee last year and Republicans 5. The ideological division was 8 to 7 in favor of the liberals, although there were times when the reverse was true, and the 21-day rule was used on several occasions.

The lineup in the new Congress will be 10 Democrats and 5 Republicans. Democrats plan to fill their two vacancies with liberals. Theoretically that would give the Democratic leadership a 9-6 voting edge on most legislation or at worst 8 to 7. The new chairman, Rep. William M. Colmer, D-Miss., has voted in the past with the 5 Republicans and probably will continue to do so.

With that strong grip on the committee, the leadership sees no point in retaining the 21-day rule. It could be used to force House votes on legislation the leaders want bottled up by the Rules Committee.

Conservatives will be in numerical control of some committees this year and might kick over the traces and approve bills the administration doesn't want. In that event, an unfettered Rules Committee could serve as a graveyard.

Rep. Richard M. Bolling, D-Mo., one of the original champions of the 21-day rule and a leading spokesman for the liberals, sees no reason to retain the rule.

"We don't need it and don't want it if we get a strong grip on the Rules Committee," Bolling said.

Speaker John W. McCormack and Democratic Leader Carl Albert reportedly agree with Bolling, although they have made no formal statements to that effect. Next Monday's caucus probably will bow to the wishes of McCormack and Albert.

Whether the rule is retained or junked is up to the House itself. It will make the final decision when the new rules are adopted at next Tuesday's opening session.

Conservatives who opposed the rule in the past now see some merit in it if it is changed. They would like to remove the speaker's arbitrary authority to call up or hold back legislation sidetracked by the Rules Committee for 21 days. The speaker now has sole power to decide when the rule shall be

Big Red One Takes Care Of Its Own

WDAI, South Vietnam (AP) — True to the motto "The Big Red One takes care of its own," men of the U. S. 1st Division have raised more than $50,000 from poker, dice and beer blasts to help send sons of fallen comrades to college.

A dozen scholarships already have been awarded with money collected in the past four months and 80 more are being processed.

The scholarship fund was inspired by the heroism of Sgt. Ralph Nunez, San Pedro, Calif., whose reconnaissance patrol was ambushed by the Viet Cong in the jungles of War one C.

Before he died, Nunez saved the lives of his comrades by radioing the forward air controller to call in an air strike.

"My husband was very proud of his outfit, he loved the Big Red One," his widow wrote Maj. Gen. William E. DePuy, the division commander. "Like your men and many others in Vietnam, he did not die in vain. My heart aches for my three young sons. Eric the oldest who is four, one day will be told why his father did not return to us."

DePuy and his aides decided to do something for survivors of the more than 900 1st Division infantrymen who have been killed since the outfit arrived in Vietnam a year and a half ago.

"For once in the 196-year history of the Army, we're doing something for the people who really count," said DePuy, "those whom the war leaves behind, alone, for the rest of their lives. That's why this thing has caught on so. We never push it. We don't have to."

Among the first to receive a college scholarship was 4-year-old Eric Nunez.

Ohio Seeks Extradition

CLEVELAND (AP)— Cuyahoga County authorities planned new efforts today to have Eugene H. Woods returned here from Louisiana to face an indictment for allegedly bilking a nursing home patient of $15,000.

Woods, who once operated nursing homes in Ohio, was indicted here in 1964 and was arrested near New Orleans two years ago. However, efforts to extradite him failed when a New Orleans district judge freed him on a legal technicality after a hearing last October. Prosecutor John T. Corrigan

His Time Was Up

LOUISVILLE (AP) — When one of the boys in her class failed to report, Mrs. Alfred Simpson asked his sister where he was.

"Why," she replied logically, "he was 16 yesterday."

Kentucky law makes school attendance mandatory until the 16th birthday. said Tuesday federal authorities will be asked to rearrest Woods on a fugitive warrant. Gov. James A. Rhodes' offices have been corresponding with state and local authorities in Louisiana to determine that state's exact requirements in extradition cases.

Stage Set for Discussion Of Auto Safety Problems

WASHINGTON (AP) — The stage is set for some give-and-take between the automobile industry and the federal government over safety features to be included in 1968 model cars.

The four major U. S. producers and many foreign manufacturers notified the Commerce Department Tuesday of their inability to meet all 23 safety standards proposed for next year's cars.

They indicated some could be met immediately, but requested a modification of some proposals and a delay in putting others into effect to allow for design and production changes.

Dr. William Haddon Jr., administrator of the National Highway Safety Agency, withheld judgment on the thousands of pages of comments he received from manufacturers and suppliers.

But there already were indications the differences would be negotiated.

Haddon said it will take two weeks just to evaluate the industry comments. He said he won't know until that time whether negotiations will be held on possible modification of the 23 proposed standards.

Under law, his agency must publish by Jan. 31 its final standards for 1968 model cars, a time schedule Haddon said he intends to keep.

But the administrator already has voiced a willingness to modify the substance and timing of the proposed standards if necessary. And Alan S. Boyd, undersecretary of commerce for transportation, has said the department doesn't plan to be hard headed about its proposals.

The domestic manufacturers asked Tuesday for a meeting with Haddon. They will likely get it since it has been the agency's policy to keep an open door.

Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., met with Haddon in Washington last week and later said he was satisfied the administrator was aware when he issued the 23 standards that "some of them would, when viewed by the manufacturers and then their reactions given to him, require some modification."

"I think he will, if convinced that one or more of these standards simply cannot be met within the time fixed, make every effort to modify it, either by extending the effective date or changing the technical requirements of it," Hart said.

they would comply immediately with 10 of the 23 points. Ford listed seven others it could meet if minor changes were made in the proposed standards. GM listed eight of these.

American Motors said it could meet 16 almost immediately while Chrysler said it would meet 8 immediately and 5 more if minor changes were made.

Pure Water To Cost Ohio $1 Billion

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The uphill fight against water pollution in Ohio will be fought with about a billion dollars over the next four years, a Department of Health disclosed Tuesday.

Increasing federal assistance during that period should push total spending in the state to about $250 million a year on waste treatment facilities, Dr. Emmett W. Arnold, department director, said in the report. A record $150 million worth of such facilities were under construction in 1966, he said.

Fifteen cities have major projects under way now, he said. They are Cleveland, Columbus, Akron, Middletown, Bellefontaine, Athens, Eaton, Fairfield, Fremont, Geneva, Kent, Miamisburg, North Royalton, Strongsville and Sylvania.

Under the federal program aimed at water pollution, Ohio's allocations are $6 million this fiscal year, $22 million in 1968, $35 million in 1969, $51 million in 1970 and $65 million in 1971.

Arnold's progress report also said that some 95 per cent of Ohio municipalities and industries with pollution problems along Lake Erie have submitted time schedules for required improvements.

5 Years Ago They Said Zanuck All Washed Up

EDITOR'S NOTE: Five years ago Darryl F. Zanuck, was producing movies as an independent in Europe, and 20th Century-Fox, the company he had fashioned into a giant, was tottering. Today Zanuck is the No. 1 man at Fox, and Fox is the biggest grossing studio. How Zanuck fought his way back to control and led Fox to unparalleled prosperity is explored in the following article, the first of five columns.

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — The jackals of Hollywood, ever ready to pounce upon a fallen lion, were saying in 1962 that Darryl F. Zanuck was washed up.

The onetime boy wonder from Wahoo, Neb., they said, was more interested in wooing young European actresses and waging fortunes at chemin de fer than he was in making movies.

"Zanuck is finished," said executives and agents who had sought his favor when he was one of the half-dozen most powerful men in the film industry. They pointed out that Zanuck's five films as an independent producer had run a deficit of $4 million.

The critics reckoned without the driving force that had elevated Zanuck from a script writer for Rin-Tin-Tin to studio boss. His energies revived, he abandoned independent production, returned to 20th Century-Fox, and in four years drove it from the edge of bankruptcy to the top-grossing film company in the world.

One movie alone — "The Sound of Music" — could have provided solvency that other studios would envy. But under Zanuck's presidency, 20th Century-Fox produced a string of winning films and the most successful television operation in Hollywood, including such a series as "Peyton Place" and "Batman."

The fall and rise of Darryl Francis Zanuck dates from 1957, when he shocked the film world by stepping down as production chief of 20th Century-Fox. Moving mongrels relinquish power only by dying or being deposed. No one could figure why Zanuck would voluntarily abandon control of the domain he had ruled imperiously for the 20 years after he had merged his tiny 20th Century Co. with the giant, ailing Fox. A wiry, nervous man with a brush mustache, he established his foot-long cigars and polo mallets as trade-marks on the Hollywood scene.

"Darryl enjoyed power as much as any studio boss," says an intimate. "But he was 55, and he felt his life ebbing away. His marriage had gone sour, and he wanted the excitement of living in Europe. He also figured he could do a better job of making two or three hand-crafted films a year instead of supervising 40."

That proved to be an error. Zanuck's independent films, some starring then girl friend, Juliette Greco, were failures. An associate analyzed: "Darryl was like a great muralist who turned to painting miniatures." Zanuck realized his error and began work on "The Longest Day," a panorama of D-Day at Normandy.

At the time, 20th Century-Fox was coming apart at the seams. Three production chiefs in four years had failed to combat the falling market. Ebulient, Greek-born Spyros Skouras presided as company chief in New York, but he was ailing, and his hold was unsure. Wall Street men on the board began assuming more power.

Stockholders were growing restive, and with good reason. Skouras had put most of the company's eggs into one basket: "Cleopatra." The Rome-made epic was spending money at a furious rate, and other 20th-Fox releases were performing dimly.

The tidal wave of red ink began in 1961: a deficit of $22,532,084. In 1962: $39,796,094.

In one year the company's stock plummeted from 55 to 15 points. Darryl Zanuck was profoundly affected; he and his family owned more than 100,000 shares, more than any other stockholder.

Board members began bringing pressure for sweeping economies. One target was a film based on the best-seller about a sex survey, "The Chapman Report," to be produced in Hollywood for the Zanuck company by Richard Zanuck, Darryl's son. Ten days before the start of filming, a message was sent by a board member to the elder Zanuck: "We are canceling 'The Chapman Report.' If you want to sue, sue. But the production is canceled."

New Adjectives Sought To Describe Our Society

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gov. George Romney has begun his third term with a jab at the "Great Society." Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller has launched his third with a bid for a "Just Society." Ronald Reagan has hustled into gubernatorial ranks pushing his "Creative Society."

Romney and Reagan gave no inaugural day hints on possible presidential ambitions for 1968. But Rockefeller's inaugural address carried national political overtones.

They, along with several other Republican governors took their oaths Monday. The other governors included Don W. Samuelson of Idaho, Harold Levander of Minnesota, David F. Cargo of New Mexico, Warren P. Knowles of Wisconsin and Stan Hathaway of Wyoming.

Romney, 59, elected to a third term as Michigan's governor called for a government directed "by those who put the public trust above all personal consideration."

Then, in what some interpreted as a jab at President Johnson's "Great Society," he said "the people recognize the limitations of efforts to improve the lives of men and their society by material means alone."

"The people feel the stifling consequences of over-centralization, conformity, manipulated consensus and arbitrary unchecked power, whether public or private," he added at the Lansing ceremony.

Rockefeller, 58, who projected the "Just Society" concept at his Albany, N.Y., inaugural, often has renounced any 1968 presidential ambitions. But he spoke of federal domestic programs he said "raised the aspirations and aroused the hopes of many citizens, only to produce grave disappointments."

"I believe," he said, "it is high time for Congress to take at least a first step in providing unencumbered funds to the states." He explained that states, with their knowledge of local problems, are in a better position to say how federal aid should be spent at the local level.

Rockefeller described his "Just Society" as one in which "government is courageous, power is benign, learning is abundant, prosperity is general, order is serene, law is honored, compassion is practiced and brotherhood is lived."

Reagan, meanwhile, appeared before his Democratic-controlled legislature with a plea for cooperation and the first assignment of his "Creative Society" program — a government reorganization plan to consolidate more power in the California governor's office.

But he said he believes in three independent branches of

First of 5-Part Series

5 Years Ago They Said Zanuck All Washed Up

EDITOR'S NOTE: Five years ago Darryl F. Zanuck, was producing movies as an independent in Europe, and 20th Century-Fox, the company he had fashioned into a giant, was tottering. Today Zanuck is the No. 1 man at Fox, and Fox is the biggest grossing studio. How Zanuck fought his way back to control and led Fox to unparalleled prosperity is explored in the following article, the first of five columns.

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — The jackals of Hollywood, ever ready to pounce upon a fallen lion, were saying in 1962 that Darryl F. Zanuck was washed up.

The onetime boy wonder from Wahoo, Neb., they said, was more interested in wooing young European actresses and waging fortunes at chemin de fer than he was in making movies.

"Zanuck is finished," said executives and agents who had sought his favor when he was one of the half-dozen most powerful men in the film industry. They pointed out that Zanuck's five films as an independent producer had run a deficit of $4 million.

The critics reckoned without the driving force that had elevated Zanuck from a script writer for Rin-Tin-Tin to studio boss. His energies revived, he abandoned independent production, returned to 20th Century-Fox, and in four years drove it from the edge of bankruptcy to the top-grossing film company in the world.

One movie alone — "The Sound of Music" — could have provided solvency that other studios would envy. But under Zanuck's presidency, 20th Century-Fox produced a string of winning films and the most successful television operation in Hollywood, including such a series as "Peyton Place" and "Batman."

The fall and rise of Darryl Francis Zanuck dates from 1957, when he shocked the film world by stepping down as production chief of 20th Century-Fox. Moving mongrels relinquish power only by dying or being deposed. No one could figure why Zanuck would voluntarily abandon control of the domain he had ruled imperiously for the 20 years after he had merged his tiny 20th Century Co. with the giant, ail-

Tiger Grapplers Set for Tourney

The Circleville High School wrestling team, idle since Dec. 21 when they defeated Chillicothe, will compete in the Groveport Tournament beginning noon Saturday.

eastern of Ross in the only game on tap.

The Metro tilt at Reynoldsburg will determine the league leaders. The host Raiders hold a slight edge in competition, with four wins in as many league games while the Vikings have won all three of their starts.

Rod Teets, Viking 6-5 senior center, is the team's leading scorer and rebounder. Netting 142 markers in nine contests this year, he has an average of 18.2 per game.

MIKE STONE with 72 points, and Vic Love with 93, are the two starting Teays Valley forwards. They give the Vikings an effective scoring potential from the corners and provide good rebounding strength along the forward line.

Starting backcourt men have been Jim Estep and Ron Leatherwood. All five starters have shown themselves capable of double figure performances on a given night.

Stone has a high game of 18. Love consistently scores 10 to 12 points per tilt.

The best performance for Estep has been 20 markers, a figure he has reached twice this season. Leatherwood had a 15-point game against Bishop Hartley and was the team's leading scorer that night.

All-sports stars Gary Shade and Terry Miller are two top performers for Reynoldsburg. The Raiders season record includes a 56-54 loss at Circleville.

The Logan Elm-Laurelville game will be a rematch of the tilt played last Thursday in the Zane Trace Holiday tournament. The Braves won handily, 70-41, on the neutral floor.

THIS TIME Coach Keith Merrin does not expect his charges to have an easy time of it, in spite of the home floor advantage.

The Wildcats couldn't get their run and shoot offense in gear two nights in a row in the Zane Trace tourney. They won the first game, 84-80, over Huntington, one of two teams that has beaten Logan Elm this season.

Bob Bowers, a steady 6-3 performer for the Wildcats, scored 22 points against the Braves in the tourney, but got no scoring support from his teammates. Steve Hettinger, scorching the nets at a 20 point average going into the tilt, was limited to four points.

The game is the first in SVC action for the Braves. The Wildcats own an 81-51 win over Piquett in the league.

On Saturday night, Logan Elm travels to Southeastern. The Ross County quintet has virtually every member returning from a squad that went all the way to the State in tournament play last year before losing to Toledo Rossford in the first round.

Southeastern has lost three games this year, the latest a 68-49 defeat to Western of Pike County.

A PAIR of wins could provide Coach Merrin and the Logan Elm Braves with an important milestone — the 100th win for both Merrin and the Braves. Larry Wilson's young Westfall squad will be trying to get back on the winning track Friday when the Adena Warriors provide the competition.

The Mustangs opened this season with four losses. They then posted a pair of wins over Hamilton Twp. and Paint Valley, and lost again to Huntington. They picked up their third win against Washington C. H., but lost last week in SVC competition to Unioto.

Westfall is 1-1 in the SVC and has a 3-6 over-all record.

Zane Trace hosts Bishop Flagon on Friday in a Ross County League game.

Graham Mum On Plans for Senior Bowl

MOBILE, Ala. (AP) — South Coach Otto Graham is being closed mouthed about his plans for Saturday's 18th annual Senior Bowl football classic as North Coach Norm Van Brocklin asserts his team will play a passing game.

Graham of the Washington Redskins, didn't verbally indicate what his strategy would be, but Tuesday's workout preparation appeared to be both in the air and on the ground.

Van Brocklin, of the Minnesota Vikings, said his squad "will definitely play a passing game" against the South.

One Senior Bowl official termed the North's practice as "one of the hardest workouts in at least 10 years here." The South squad worked on passing and running while emphasizing the old-fashioned draw up the middle.

Sidelined for the practice was Alabama's All-America end Ray Perkins, who was signed a contract with the Baltimore Colts after catching nine passes for 159 yards against Nebraska in the Sugar Bowl.

Pickaway Junior High Tourney Drawing Slated

The drawing for the annual Pickaway County Junior High School basketball tournament will be held 4 p. m. Thursday in the office of George D. McDowell, superintendent of schools.

Walnut (7-0) and Scioto, (6-1), the two top teams in the final league standings, will be seeded in the draw.

The tournament games will be played Jan. 14, 21 and 28 at Walnut Twp. School.

Baseball Meet Set

The Circleville Youth Baseball Board of Directors will meet 8 p. m. Monday at the Pickaway County Fairgrounds, board president William Thomas, announced today.

THEY LOVE THOSE PACKERS—Especially in Green Bay, as this airport crowd shows. The banner-carrying group was on hand to welcome the Packers home after winning the NFL title in a thriller with Dallas in Dallas. Green Bay now meets the AFL winner, Kansas City, in the Super Bowl.

Packers, Chiefs Get Set for Super Playoff

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP) — The Green Bay Packers were putting their pride before their pocketbooks today as they began getting ready for the Jan. 15 Super Bowl clash with the Kansas City Chiefs.

The first meeting between the champions of the National and American football leagues should earn each member of the winning team $15,000 with the losers having to settle for a mere $7,500.

The money is nothing to sneeze at even for the prosperous Packers, who have collected winners' shares in four of the past six National Football League championship games.

But the Packers have loftier goals. "The money is really secondary," said quarterback Bart Starr, the NFL's Most Valuable Player. "A lot of people will find that hard to believe but it's really true."

"There's more than money in this particular game," said tackle Henry Jordan.

"The money means something of course," said halfback Elijah Pitts, but it's secondary.

Starr put it this way: "The biggest thing we've got going for us is to represent our league well. As we look at it right now, the things we worked for all year came down to these two games — the championship game with Dallas and the right to represent our league in the Super Bowl."

"The pride of the whole thing," said Pitts, "is what you feel, being part of a ball club in the Super Bowl and representing the National Football League. It's an exciting thing for me."

The Packers are already installed as eight-point favorites, but Green Bay isn't taking the American Football League representatives lightly.

"You've got to respect any team that's won its division and gone on to win its league's championship," said Starr. "I know they have real fine football players."

Bob Cousy of the Boston Celtics set a record with 28 assists against Minneapolis in a NBA basketball game on Feb. 27, 1959 in Boston.

Ohio College Conference Action Opens

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Conference action among Ohio's college basketball teams shifts into high gear tonight with a Mid-American Conference showdown between Toledo and Bowling Green.

Tuesday night's college schedule was limited to a mismatch at Ohio University. The Bobcats breezing to a record score and a 122-70 victory over little MacMurray of Illinois, and Wittenberg's 71-61 loss to Stetson, Fla., in the winner's tournament.

The Toledo-BG match, on the Falcons' court, pits the state's only undefeated five against the preseason MAC favorite. Toledo's 7-0 record includes an early season conference win over Marshall. The Falcons are opening MAC play against the Rockets.

Another top Buckeye State battle tonight matches Dayton and Xavier in Cincinnati.

All 14 men Ohio U. Coach Jim Snyder used against MacMurray broke into the long scoring column. Gerald McKee led the scorers, with 18 points.

The old Bobcat scoring record for a game was 118 against Morris Harvey in 1958.

Wittenberg's downfall in the finals of the Stetson tourney came despite a late rally by the Ohioans. The Tigers cut the Stetson lead to four points late in the game before running out of steam.

Phillies Acquire Gentile from Cleveland Farm

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Philadelphia Phillies have added controversial slugger Jim Gentile to their roster as a backup man for first baseman Bill White, injured in an off-season accident.

General manager John Quinn of the National League Phillies, announced Tuesday that Gentile 33, had been acquired from the Cleveland Indians' Portland farm club for a player to be named later or cash.

He said the deal was made for Gentile due to "the need to go into spring training with an experienced first baseman."

White, who drove in more than 100 runs and hit more than 20 homers last season, injured his ankle while playing handball in St. Louis Dec. 19. Doctors said he is expected to miss part or all of spring training this year.

Cecil (Hooty) Ingram, an assistant football coach at Georgia, intercepted 10 passes while playing for Alabama in 1952.

Ed Budde, 6-foot-5, 260-pound guard who was an All-AFL choice for the first time, said "I know we can keep 'em the Packers out of there."

The center is Wayne Frazier, 246, obtained from Houston in a trade after John Gilliam hurt his knee in a pre-season game. His play has been a surprise. Gilliam, a quick, smart veteran, can play in a pinch.

TV Basketball Series Not 'Just' Sportscast

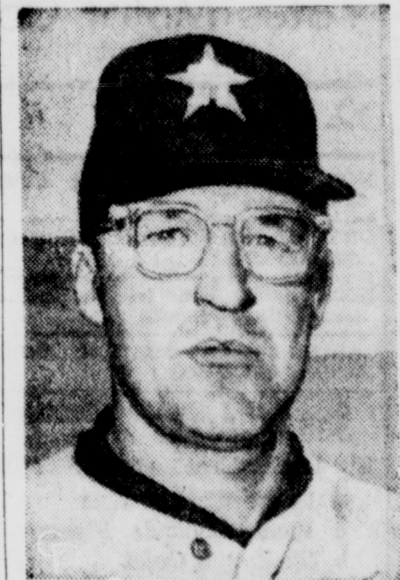

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Commissioner Bob James of the Mid-American Conference announced plans today for the conference's "Game-of-the-Week" TV basketball series, to include a complete entertainment package rather than just an ordinary sports telecast.

Plans are for pre-game and halftime segments of the TV games, to open Jan. 7 with defending champion Miami's visit to Toledo.

The conference's television coordinating committee has arranged for Toledo's famed dancing coeds—The Rock-ets, to kick off the series of nine "student showcase" presentations at halftime each week. Other homebred talent to give performances include Kent's synchronized swimmers Jan. 28, Marshall's baton twirlers March 4, Bowling Green's figure skaters Feb. 4, and Ohio University's brass choir Feb. 11.

On Jan. 21, former Western Michigan star end Jack Olson, now Wisconsin's lieutenant governor, will return to his alma mater to receive his silver anniversary All-American award from Sports Illustrated. On Feb. 25, 1967 Bowling Green Capt. Bob Dwors will be interviewed by announcer Jim Graner. Dwors won an NCAA scholarship for graduate study and is now a junior marketing executive in Columbus.

Metro, Scioto Valley Loop
Action Tops Area Tilts

In area cage action Friday, Teays Valley travels to Reynoldsburg for a Metropolitan League game and Laurelville is at Logan Elm in the Scioto Valley Conference.

STRIKING IT RICH NOW — Baseball's greatest pitcher, Sandy Koufax of the Los Angeles Dodgers, who announced his retirement from baseball because of an arthritic elbow, soon starts a new career with the National Broadcasting Co. as commentator and developing new projects.

Tiger Grapplers Set for Tourney

The Circleville High School wrestling team, idle since Dec. 21 when they defeated Chillicothe, will compete in the Groveport Tournament beginning noon Saturday.

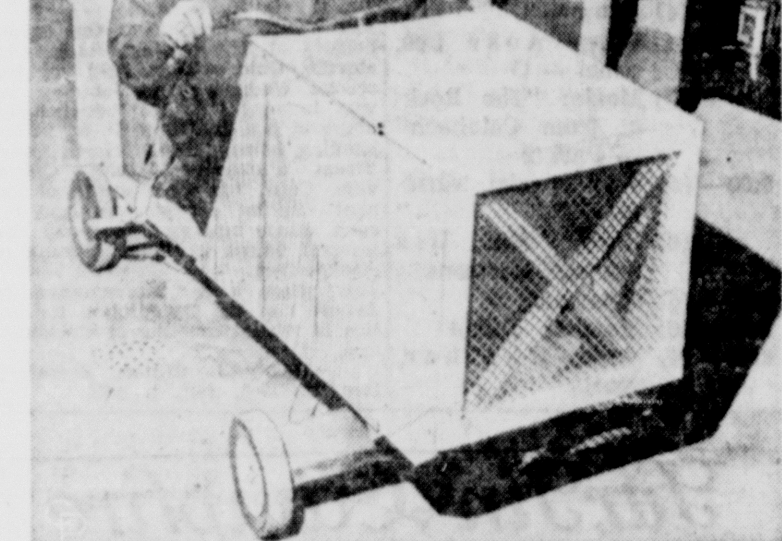

The Tiger grapplers have a 3-2 dual meet record. They also captured the quadrangular meet held here Dec. 17.

eastern of Ross in the only game on tap.

The Metro tilt at Reynoldsburg will determine the league leaders. The host Raiders hold a slight edge in competition, with four wins in as many league games while the Vikings have won all three of their starts.

Rod Teets, Viking 6-5 senior center, is the team's leading scorer and rebounder. Netting 142 markers in nine contests this year, he has an average of 18.2 per game.

MIKE STONE with 72 points, and Vic Love with 93, are the two starting Teays Valley forwards. They give the Vikings an effective scoring potential from the corners and provide good rebounding strength along the forward line.

Starting backcourt men have been Jim Estep and Ron Leatherwood. All five starters have shown themselves capable of double figure performances on a given night.

Stone has a high game of 18. Love consistently scores 10 to 12 points per tilt.

The best performance for Estep has been 20 markers, a figure he has reached twice this season. Leatherwood had a 15-point game against Bishop Hartley and was the team's leading scorer that night.

All-sports stars Gary Shade and Terry Miller are two top performers for Reynoldsburg. The Raiders season record includes a 56-54 loss at Circleville.

The Logan Elm - Laurelville game will be a rematch of the tilt played last Thursday in the Zane Trace Holiday tournament. The Braves won handily, 70-41, on the neutral floor.

THIS TIME Coach Keith Merrin does not expect his charges to have an easy time of it, in spite of the home floor advantage.

The Wildcats couldn't get their run and shoot offense in gear two nights in a row in the Zane Trace tourney. They won the first game, 84-80, over Huntington, one of two teams that has beaten Logan Elm this season.

Bob Bowers, a steady 6-3 performer for the Wildcats, scored 22 points against the Braves in the tourney, but got no scoring support from his teammates. Steve Hettinger, scorching the nets at a 20 point average going into the tilt, was limited to four points.

The game is the first in SVC action for the Braves. The Wildcats own an 81-51 win over Piketon in the league.

On Saturday night, Logan Elm travels to Southeastern. The Ross County quintet has virtually every member returning from a squad that went all the way to the State in tournament play last year before losing to Toledo Rossford in the first round.

ing to Toledo Rossford in the first round.

Southeastern has lost three games this year, the latest a 68-49 defeat to Western of Pike County.

A PAIR of wins could provide Coach Merrin and the Logan Elm Braves with an important milestone — the 100th win for both Merrin and the Braves.

Larry Wilson's young Westfall squad will be trying to get back on the winning track Friday when the Adena Warriors provide the competition.

The Mustangs opened this season with four losses. They then posted a pair of wins over Hamilton Twp. and Paint Valley, and lost again to Huntington. They picked up their third win against Washington C. H., but lost last week in SVC competition to Union.

Westfall is 1-1 in the SVC and has a 3-6 over-all record. Zane Trace hosts Bishop Flanagan on Friday in a Ross County League game.

Graham Mum On Plans for Senior Bowl

MOBILE, Ala. (AP) — South Coach Otto Graham is being closed mouthed about his plans for Saturday's 18th annual Senior Bowl football classic as North Coach Norm Van Brocklin asserts his team will play a passing game.

Graham of the Washington Redskins, didn't verbally indicate what his strategy would be, but Tuesday's workout preparation appeared to be both in the air and on the ground.

Van Brocklin, of the Minnesota Vikings, said his squad "will definitely play a passing game" against the South.

One Senior Bowl official termed the North's practice as "one of the hardest workouts in at least 10 years here." The South squad worked on passing and running while emphasizing the old-fashioned draw up the middle.

Sidelined for the practice was Alabama's All-America end Ray Perkins, who was signed a contract with the Baltimore Colts after catching nine passes for 159 yards against Nebraska in the Sugar Bowl.

Pickaway Junior High Tourney Drawing Slated

The drawing for the annual Pickaway County Junior High School basketball tournament will be held 4 p. m. Thursday in the office of George D. McDowell, superintendent of schools.

Walnut (7-0) and Scioto, (6-1), the two top teams in the final league standings, will be seeded in the draw.

The tournament games will be played Jan. 14, 21 and 28 at Walnut Twp. School.

Baseball Meet Set

The Circleville Youth Baseball Board of Directors will meet 8 p. m. Monday at the Pickaway County Fairgrounds, board president William Thomas, announced today.

THEY LOVE THOSE PACKERS—Especially in Green Bay, as this airport crowd shows. The banner-carrying group was on hand to welcome the Packers home after winning the NFL title in a thriller with Dallas in Dallas. Green Bay now meets the AFL winner, Kansas City, in the Super Bowl.

Packers, Chiefs Get Set for Super Playoff

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP) — The Green Bay Packers were putting their pride before their pocketbooks today as they began getting ready for the Jan. 15 Super Bowl clash with the Kansas City Chiefs.

The first meeting between the champions of the National and American football leagues should earn each member of the winning team $15,000 with the losers having to settle for a mere $7,500.

The money is nothing to sneeze at even for the prosperous Packers, who have collected winners' shares in four of the past six National Football League championship games.

But the Packers have loftier goals. "The money is really secondary," said quarterback Bart Starr, the NFL's Most Valuable Player. "A lot of people will find that hard to believe but it's really true."

"There's more than money in this particular game," said tackle Henry Jordan.

"The money means something of course," said halfback Elijah Pitts, but it's secondary.

Starr put it this way: "The biggest thing we've got going for us is to represent our league well. As we look at it right now, the things we worked for all year came down to these two games — the championship game with Dallas and the right to represent our league in the Super Bowl."

"The pride of the whole thing," said Pitts, "is what you feel, being part of a ball club in the Super Bowl and representing the National Football League. It's an exciting thing for me."

The Packers are already installed as eight-point favorites, but Green Bay isn't taking the American Football League representatives lightly.

"You've got to respect any team that's won its division and gone on to win its league's championship," said Starr. "I know they have real fine football players."

Bob Cousy of the Boston Celtics set a record with 28 assists against Minneapolis in a NBA basketball game on Feb. 27, 1959 in Boston.

By JIM VAN VALKENBURG Associated Press Sports Writer KANSAS CITY (AP) — The Forgotten Six, offensive line of Kansas City's AFL champions, has fierce pride in its ability to do the job against Green Bay's NFL kings for the world football title Jan. 15.

"I couldn't be more proud of the men on my team — they were just great," said Jim Tyrer, 292-pound All-AFL tackle, of his team's convincing 31-7 victory over Buffalo. Does the lack of publicity bother the offensive line?

"Now, it's just something you learn to accept," he said. "We get our recognition from the points on the scoreboard."

Curt Merz, 267-pound guard, put it this way: "I don't want to hear anyone talking about who won the game. There were 40 men out there and they were all great."

Fred Arbanas, 214-pound All-AFL tight end with almost no sight in his left eye, is eager for a shot at the NFL champs.

"I think we can beat Green Bay," Arbanas said. "My shoulder will be fine by then, I'll guarantee you."

Some football men view Kansas City's offensive line as the key to the game. Johnny Sample New York Jets' cornerback who played for three NFL clubs, had this to say after the Chiefs beat New York!

"They could beat many of the teams in the National League, but Green Bay's defensive line would eat them up."

Hank Stram, Kansas City headman who was voted AFL Coach of the Year, makes it clear he doesn't want to get into the comparison game — "The War of Words," as he terms it.

"It's still a war on grass," Stram said. "And the war is won up front."

"The fact we have scored more points 479 in 15 games than any team in pro football is a direct compliment to the blocking of our offensive line. They are big, strong and mobile and they have great pride."

Dave Hill, termed by Stram "the most underrated tackle in

Ohio College Conference Action Opens

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Conference action among Ohio's college basketball teams shifts into high gear tonight with a Mid-American Conference showdown between Toledo and Bowling Green.

Tuesday night's college schedule was limited to a mismatch at Ohio University. The Bobcats breezing to a record score and a 122-70 victory over little MacMurray of Illinois, and Wittenberg's 71-61 loss to Stetson, Fla., in the winner's tournament.

The Toledo-BG match, on the Falcons' court, pits the state's only undefeated five against the preseason MAC favorite. Toledo's 7-0 record includes an early season conference win over Marshall. The Falcons are opening MAC play against the Rockets.

Another top Buckeye State battle tonight matches Dayton and Xavier in Cincinnati.

All 14 men Ohio U. Coach Jim Snyder used against MacMurray broke into the long scoring column. Gerald McKee led the scorers, with 18 points.

The old Bobcat scoring record for a game was 118 against Morris Harvey in 1958.

Wittenberg's downfall in the finals of the Stetson tourney came despite a late rally by the Ohioans. The Tigers cut the Stetson lead to four points late in the game before running out of steam.

Phillies Acquire Gentile from Cleveland Farm

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Philadelphia Phillies have added controversial slugger Jim Gentile to their roster as a backup man for first baseman Bill White, injured in an off-season accident.

General manager John Quinn of the National League Phillies, announced Tuesday that Gentile 33, had been acquired from the Cleveland Indians' Portland farm club for a player to be named later or cash.

He said the deal was made for Gentile due to "the need to go into spring training with an experienced first baseman."

White, who drove in more than 100 runs and hit more than 20 homers last season, injured his ankle while playing handball in St. Louis Dec. 19. Doctors said he is expected to miss part or all of spring training this year.

Cecil (Hoity) Ingram, an assistant football coach at Georgia, intercepted 10 passes while playing for Alabama in 1952.

the AFL," started calling the offensive line the Forgotten Five in mid-season. Arbanas quickly corrected him, saying "I made six."

Ed Budde, 6-foot-5, 260-pound guard who was an All-AFL choice for the first time, said "I know we can keep 'em the Packers out of there."

The center is Wayne Frazier, 246, obtained from Houston in a trade after John Gilliam hurt his knee in a pre-season game. His play has been a surprise. Gilliam, a quick, smart veteran, can play in a pinch.

TV Basketball Series Not 'Just' Sportscast

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Commissioner Bob James of the Mid-American Conference announced plans today for the conference's "Game of the Week" TV basketball series, to include a complete entertainment package rather than just an ordinary sports telecast.

Plans are for pre-game and halftime segments of the TV games, to open Jan. 7 with defending champion Miami's visit to Toledo.

The conference's television coordinating committee has arranged for Toledo's famed dancing coeds—The Rock-ets, to kick off the series of nine "student showcase" presentations at half-time each week. Other home-bred talent to give performances include Kent's synchronized swimmers Jan. 28, Marshall's baton twirlers March 4, Bowling Green's figure skaters Feb. 4, and Ohio University's brass choir Feb. 11.

On Jan. 21, former Western Michigan star end Jack Olson, now Wisconsin's lieutenant governor, will return to his alma mater to receive his silver anniversary All-American award from Sports Illustrated. On Feb. 25, 1967 Bowling Green Capt. Bob Dwors will be interviewed by announcer Jim Graner. Dwors won an NCAA scholarship for graduate study and is now a junior marketing executive in Columbus.

MANAGER NOW—Eddie Kasko, who has been a major league regular and utility player for many years, has been named manager of the Toronto club of the International League by the Boston Red Sox. Kasko spent most of the 1966 season with the Red Sox but started the year with the Houston Astros.

Duke Suspends 9 Players For Training Violations

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer
"A position of leadership," said Vic Bunas, Duke's basketball coach, "is a lonely one and I have been lonely for the last couple of days."

Bunas got lonelier later. That was after he had temporarily suspended nine players including four starters for training violations and left himself with only seven players — two on the bench and five on the floor — for Tuesday night's game against Penn State at Durham, N.C.

Fortunately for Duke, one of the clean sweep survivors was sharp shooting Bob Verga. He fired 38 points and led what was left of the Blue Devils to an 89-84 victory over Penn State.

Bunas would give no details on the suspensions which hit starters Mike Lewis, Bob Reddy, Dave Golden and Tim Kolodziej and reserves Tony Barone, Warren Chapman, Ron Wendellin, Jim Liccardo and Joe Kennedy.

The coach would say only, "It is a privilege, not a right to play college basketball."

Fred Lind, C. B. Claiborne, Steve Vandenberg and Stu McKaig joined Verga in Duke's starting line-up. Lind and Claiborne never had scored a point before for Duke but produced 22 between them with Claiborne getting 13.

Vandenberg, who had been averaging 3.4 points per game, led the sub-200-pound starters with 16 points. McKaig scored eight. Bob Francis, who had never played a varsity minute for Duke before, came off the sparsely populated bench and scored five points.

Louisville, ranked second in The Associated Press' Top Ten, overcame a strong individual performance by Tulsa's Eldridge Webb and beat the Hurricanes 76-62 in a Missouri Valley Conference game.

referred by high school officials. The regular MVC officials failed to show up for the game, which had been rescheduled from Jan. 7. "It was just the breaks," said Tulsa Coach Joe Swank. "Of course I'm not very happy."

Webb scored 13 points in the first half and finished with 27. Westley unself led the Cardinals with 24 points and 24 rebounds.

Tulane shot 66 per cent from record and New York University's hot-shooting Mal Graham established an individual mark in other games.

Tulane shot 66 per cent from the floor and ripped Yale 118-106 with Al Andrews pumping in 34 points. The 118 points were two more than the school record set against Northwestern earlier this season.

Graham, a 6-foot-1 guard, poured in 48 points, one more than the school mark he set last year, as NYU walloped Wagner 100-74.

Chicago Loyola went on a 20-1 tear over six minutes late in the game and ripped Minnesota 87-63. Jim Tillman led the Ramblers with 26 points.

Charles Beasley, who finished with 30 points, dropped in a 20-footer with two seconds left in overtime, lifting Southern Methodist to an 85-83 victory over Baylor.

In a doubleheader at Philadelphia's Palestra, Catholic University surprised St. Joseph's of Philadelphia 76-72 and Temple downed Pennsylvania 74-66.

In other major games, Iona trimmed Duquesne 55-52, Tennessee ripped Furman 87-49, Texas A&M defeated Rice 69-56, Texas topped Arkansas 71-62 and Auburn downed Louisiana State 70-59.

Alcindor Faces Weird Weapons

PULLMAN, Wash. (AP) — Boards, tennis racquets and a stool were the weapons Washington State Coach Marv Harshman used Wednesday to prepare for the opening Pacific — Conference basketball play Saturday against UCLA and Lew Alcindor.

The 14-inch stool, with 6-foot-6 Dick Watters standing on it, was Harshman's way of approximately in practice what the Cougars must cope with when the 7-foot-1½ Alcindor moves into the pivot.

To show the WSU offense what it's like when Alcindor gets his long arms working for UCLA's pressing defense, Harshman strapped boards to 6-foot-7 Dick Jacobs' hands. The tennis racquets were used for the same purpose.

"The idea is really not as crazy as it might appear," Harshman said. "Many of the kids on our team haven't seen Alcindor and can't imagine how much area he covers, how agile he is and how much damage he can do."

Harshman said stool scrimmaging gives the team an idea how quickly they have to move in on him and back out when he gets the ball and taps it back outside for a quick jump shot.

He said the big difficulty in playing against someone of Alcindor's size "is the psychological effect he creates, particularly in the shooting department where he makes you shoot the ball with a higher arch than you normally would. This makes the team shoot poorly."

The Washington State players laughed at Harshman's scheme — at first. "But when they saw how Watters could hold the ball out of reach and hurt the defense so easily, and how Jacobs could bat away passed all over the court, they soon realized what they would be faced with," Harshman said.

Robertson, Chamberlain Near 1,000

NEW YORK (AP) — Rick Barry, San Francisco's hot shooting sophomore, is the only player in the National Basketball Association to have passed the 1,000-point plateau this season but he is about to get some company.

Cincinnati's Oscar Robertson and Philadelphia's Wilt Chamberlain are on the 1,000-point threshold, figures released by the NBA showed today.

Barry led the league with 1,312 points through Sunday's games. Robertson was second with 953 and Chamberlain third at 928. Both should pass the 1,000-point mark this week with the Royals playing two games and the 76ers three.

Chamberlain, Barry and Chicago's Guy Rodgers led the other individual categories.

Chamberlain held flat margins in field goal percentage and rebounds. He was averaging .689 from the field with Willis Reed of New York second with .524. Chamberlain had grabbed 923 rebounds, .013 more than Nate Thurmond of San Francisco.

Barry's .891 free throw percentage put him in front of Adrian Smith of Cincinnati, who was shooting .888 from the foul line.

Rodgers led in assists with 467 to 347 for Robertson.

St. Louis Hawks Placed on Block

ST. LOUIS AP — Ben Kerner, one of two individual owners of a National Basketball Association club, says he's putting his St. Louis Hawks on sale.

An attorney for Kerner made the announcement Tuesday at a news conference which the 50-year-old owner did not attend. Kerner suffers from arthritis and his health was given as a primary reason for the decision.

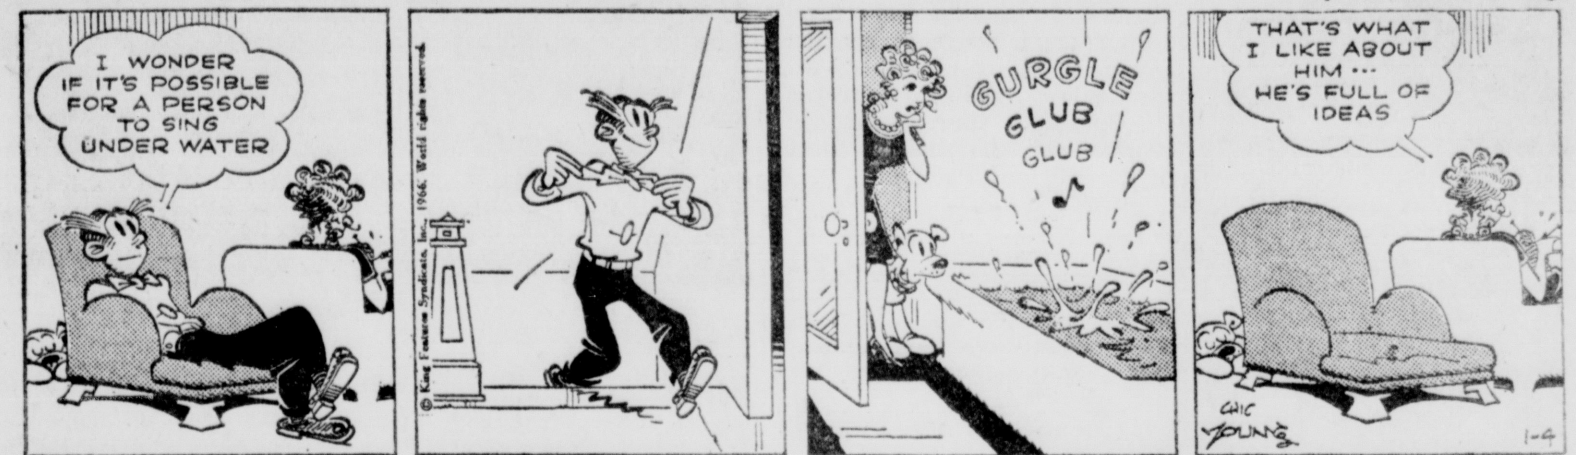

"The operation of a team in the NBA now demands more than just one man," said

Six members of the Baltimore Orioles who saw World Series action formerly played Little League baseball.

Michael J. Aubuchon, the attorney for the club, Aubuchon denied that falling attendance precipitated Kerner's decision.

THINK ART THIEF WAS A WOMAN—Seeking clues, police examine a door panel that was cut away in an unused door at historic Dulwich Art Gallery in London by a thief or thieves who escaped with eight masterpieces worth up to $8.4 million. Scotland Yard theorized that the "thin man" who squirmed through the tiny hole might be a woman.

Return of Art Leaves Mystery

LONDON (AP)—Eight paintings worth $7 million, stolen five days ago in the world's biggest art theft, were reported today recovered intact.

Three of the old masters were found in what was believed a professional robbers' den and others in a parcel behind a clump of bushes not far from London's Dulwich College Gallery where they were stolen Friday, police informants said.

Scotland Yard announced the recovery of the paintings but declined to give details. Detectives were still questioning some men in connection with the theft, the Yard said.

The paintings — three Rembrandts, three Rubens and one each by Gerald Dou and Adam Elsheimer — were reported to be in good condition despite exposure to frosty air. Some of the paintings were damaged slightly, officials said.

Scotland Yard insiders said three of the paintings were found Monday at a hideout which contained a hoard of other stolen property and some weapons.

They said an anonymous telephone call led detectives Tuesday night to Streatham Common, about four miles from Dulwich Gallery in South London, where the remaining five paintings were found in some bushes.

The paintings were stolen Friday night from the college art gallery, the oldest public gallery in Britain.

It was the biggest art theft in history. Police said they recovered Rembrandt's "Girl at a Window" and his portrait of his son Titus as well as the "Three Graces" by Rubens on Monday night. The other five paintings were found Tuesday night.

All the paintings were recovered in London. Officials said some were damaged but the damage was comparatively slight.

These Were Top Business Events for Year of 1966

NEW YORK (AP)—Business continued to boom in 1966 but many uncertainties hung over the economy.

Top events:
Another price hassle erupted between the steel industry and the government. Bethlehem Steel Corp. initiated a $5-a-ton raise for structural steel. The government said it wouldn't buy from companies that boosted prices. U.S. Steel Corp., the No. 1 producer, announced a $2.75 raise which was accepted by the government and then followed by other companies.

President Johnson, in his economic message to Congress, said "the American economic miracle" will continue through 1968. He sent to Congress a record $112.8-billion budget for the 1967 fiscal year.

The stock market, as measured by the Dow Jones industrial average, reached an all-time high of 995.15 on Feb. 9. Then it started a steady slide that took it well below the 800-mark in late summer.

A rash of price increases heightened the degree of inflation. Consumers had to dig deeper into their pockets to buy food, automobiles and many other items.

The business boom entered its sixth year in March with most economists predicting that 1966 would be as good as 1965 despite threats of inflation, tighter money and manpower shortages.

The Interstate Commerce Commission approved the merger of the New York Central and Pennsylvania railroads which would create the world's largest privately owned rail system. The merger was delayed in taking effect by suits brought by other railroads.

Steel producers increased the price of sheet metal $2 to $3 a ton. The White House called the move "irresponsible." But the producers stood firm and the raise held.

The Machinists' Union staged a month-long string against five airlines, snarling air transportation. The settlement exceeded the government's wage guidelines which had put a limit of 3.2 per cent on increases.

The cost of living climbed steadily throughout the year. Food cost increases were the major factor. Housewives in many sections of the nation organized supermarket boycotts to air their protests.

Automobile sales declined during the fall from the record level of 1965. General Motors, Ford, Chrysler and American Motors trimmed production.

Housing starts fell to a 20-year low.

All the paintings were recovered in London. Officials said some were damaged but the damage was comparatively slight.

The announcement of the recovery did not say how the paintings were traced or whether anyone had been arrested.

Scotland Yard announced earlier that several persons were being questioned.

The Yard did not announce the recovery of the first three paintings for fear the thieves might destroy the others.

A hoard of other stolen property and some weapons was found with some of the paintings.

Scotland Yard said inquiries were continuing in an attempt to establish the identity of the art thieves.

The thieves removed a panel from a seldom-used door in the Dulwich Gallery, and one of them was small enough to slip through it. He apparently handed the paintings out to his confederates. Those on canvas were removed from their frames and those on wood panels were lifted off their racks.

Another price battle erupted between the steel industry and the government. Bethlehem Steel Corp. initiated a $5-a-ton raise for structural steel. The government said it wouldn't buy from companies that boosted prices. U.S. Steel Corp., the No. 1 producer, announced a $2.75 raise which was accepted by the government and then followed by other companies.

President Johnson, in his economic message to Congress, said "the American economic miracle" will continue through 1966. He sent to Congress a record $112.8-billion budget for the 1967 fiscal year.

The stock market, as measured by the Dow Jones industrial average, reached an all-time high of 995.15 on Feb. 9. Then it started a steady slide that took it well below the 800-mark in late summer.

A rash of price increases heightened the degree of inflation. Consumers had to dig deeper into their pockets to buy food, automobiles and many other items.

The business boom entered its sixth year in March with most economists predicting that 1966 would be as good as 1965 despite threats of inflation, tighter money and manpower shortages.

The Interstate Commerce commission approved the merger of the New York Central and Pennsylvania railroads which would create the world's largest privately owned rail system. The merger was delayed in taking effect by suits brought by other railroads.

Steel producers increased the price of sheet metal $2 to $3 a ton. The White House called the move "irresponsible." But the producers stood firm and the raise held.

The Machinists' Union staged a month-long strike against five airlines, snarling air transportation. The settlement exceeded the government's wage guidelines which had put a limit of 3.2 per cent on increases.

The cost of living climbed steadily throughout the year. Food cost increases were the major factor. Housewives in many sections of the nation organized supermarket boycotts to air their protests.

Automobile sales declined during the fall from the record level of 1965. General Motors, Ford, Chrysler and American Motors trimmed production.

Housing starts fell to a 20-year low.
